Fine Haired

IF there's any better furniture made in this city than the Conant Bros.' Furniture, we'd like to see the color of the man's hair that makes it. He's a mighty fine haired fellow, whoever he is. He's got to be to make such furniture. They don't sell it at the other stores. Mighty few factories make as good. The people know this to be the fact. Put yourself in a position to be convinced by making a personal inspection of our stock.

WILL PUSH HIS SUITS.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 28.—Gov. Pattison having been asked as to the prospect of the trials of the libels against the Philadelphia Inquirer, the North American of Philadelphia and the Morning Call, of Harrisburg, said: "It is still my purpose to have these cases tried in the courts of Philadelphia, and I propose that this shall be done." He said he would make no speeches in the present campaign.

BISHOP NICHOLSON.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—Impressive ceremonies marked, this morning, the consecration of the Rev. Isaac Lea Nicholson to the bishopric of Milwaukee. The event took place in the Episcopal church of St. Marks, on Locust street, above Sixteenth, to which parish the newly-made bishop has ministered for many years.

CARS RUNNING

Along the New Consolidated Trolley Wire on Monroe Street.

No longer are the big and heavy electric cars of the Nebraska avenue line pulled along Monroe street by horses. The last team was taken off this morning, and the Monroe street line is working smoothly over the trolley wire put up last Saturday night. The "ears" holding the trolley are not all in, but the trolley is sufficiently supported to be used. This trolley wire is placed about a foot from the Robison wires, and when the power was turned on this morning the cars moved along without a hitch, and so far to-day nothing has developed to indicate that the line will not work successfully.

Badges Manufactured From Welsh Tin

Pinned on the Breasts of Toledo Citizens.

The Books at the Columbus Customs House Show that the Material Came Direct From the Mills Across the Deep.

Columbus, Oct. 28.—Some weeks ago an account was given in these dispatches of the deception practiced by the republican executive committee in the distribution of McKinley badges which were alleged to have been made from pure American tin.

In the article it was stated that the republican committee distributed these badges and knowingly misrepresented the facts by giving out the impression that they were manufactured from tin made in this country, while at the same time the committee knew that the badges were produced from tin imported direct from Wales.

The republican managers and certain republican newspapers in the state squirmed under the statement of facts and clippings sent to this city asking that an investigation be made and inquiring if it would be safe to challenge the statement made.

Up to the present time neither the papers nor any member of the committee has had the temerity to question the correctness of the article.

Your correspondent has patiently waited for an opportunity to prove the statement then made, and will now refer to a few facts proving conclusively that the badges were manufactured from tin imported direct from Swansea, Wales.

The records of the custom house at Columbus will show that duty to the amount of $600 in round numbers was paid on the batch of tin from which these alleged American tin badges were made.

The tin was purchased through Thomas & Stirling, the Liverpool brokers, and was invoiced by them to the firm in this city manufacturing the badges.

The $600 duty was, of course, added to the original cost of of the tin imported and taxed against the consumers who purchase the various articles produced by the establishment.

After the McKinley law went into operation the Columbus firm increased the price of nearly every article manufactured by them about 20 per cent., which correspondingly enhanced the cost to the consumer.

The experience of the Columbus firm with the United States Tin Plate and Iron company of Demmler, Pa., will be interesting in this connection.

Shortly after the announcement was made that American tin was being made in large quantities at Demmler, the Columbus firm placed an order for a quantity of the product.

The Demmler people replied that they were not yet prepared to fill orders, but would be in a very short time, and had booked the order and that the tin would forwarded in due time.

After waiting a couple of months, the Columbus firm became impatient at the delay and wrote the Demmler people for an explanation as to why the tin had not been shipped.

To this letter the Demmler concern replied that they had so many advance orders on their books that it would be impossible to ship the tin for some months to come, if at all during the present year, entirely ignoring the fact that the Columbus firm was among those who first placed orders.

This fact alone conclusively proved that the Demmler people were not making tin plate in commercial quantities, but were merely making a bold bluff in the interest of McKinley and his robber tariff scheme. The interests of the Columbus firm did not suffer in the least because of the non-arrival of this alleged American tin plate, they having several hundred boxes of British plates stored away in their warehouses, but it subjected them to no inconsiderable disappointment and chagrin, as they had promised to aid the cause of McKinley by flooding the state during the campaign with badges, torches, medals, tin cups and divers other articles made from American tin plate.

Being foiled in their efforts in this direction through the inability of the Demmler concern to furnish the ammunition, they set to work making badges out of British tin plate.

At the time these badges were being made the Columbus firm did not have a solitary box of this alleged American tin plate in their establishment, but after the expose the firm became alarmed and importuned the Demmler tin plate concern to come to their rescue in order that they might successfully consummate their bluff.

After much pleading and importuning on the part of the Columbus firm the Demmler people sent them one box of alleged American tin plate. It was placed in the front office in a conspicuous place and the attention of every visitor was called to this box of the plate as a sample of what was being done by American workmen and American manufacturers in building up an infant industry through the stimulus furnished by the McKinley law.

This sample of alleged American tin plate was pronounced far superior to the British article, and the impression was given out that the concern was not only using it in the production of McKinley badges but were manufacturing many other articles out of it, and that it had stood the test so well that they were really sorry that they had so much of the blarsted Britisher's inferior stuff on hand.

This little box of tin plate was utilized at every opportunity to do service in behalf of McKinleyism, despite the fact that it proved to be not worth a "tinker's d—m" when tested by the foreman of the Columbus concern, and at last accounts it remained in the front office all by "its lonesome," while the imported article was being fashioned into all kinds of shapes and a variety of articles.

These articles were then and are now being sold to the consumers with the cost of duty paid by the Columbus firm added.

ARRESTED IN OMAHA.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 28.—Thomas Doerflinger, defaulting treasurer of the Pittsburg (Pa.) school board, was arrested here yesterday by Chief Detective Haze as he was stepping off a Rock Island train. Doerflinger's peculations amounted to over $25,000.

THE TILDEN WILL.

Mrs. Hazard Will Receive About Four Millions.

New York, Oct. 28.—The Tilden estate is now worth about $8,000,000. Mrs. Wm. B. Hazard, whose husband is a clerk in New York, will receive about half of the estate. She is the daughter of ex-Gov. Tilden's sister. The six children of the ex-governor's brother, Henry, receive the balance of the estate—between $600,000 and $700,000 each. They are George H. Tilden, S. J. Tilden, jr., Mrs. Whitsley, Mrs. Swan, Mrs. Schwartz, and Mrs. Willis S. Paine. All reside in the vicinity of Albany.

BURNED BY BURGLARS.

Columbus, O., Oct. 28.—Cleary's saloon, near the Moneypenny block, was burned to-day, and the janitor of the building, named Bailey, was found near by drunk and with numerous articles stolen from the saloon. It is supposed he robbed and set fire to the building.

Comes the Awful Story of Suffering Among the Miners in Pennsylvania—A Father Gives His Blood to Save His Child.

Pittsburg, Oct. 28.—John Mattei, with his wife and infant child, applied to the authorities last night for food.

He said he was a striking miner, and had walked from Connellsville to this city, having tasted nothing for nearly 48 hours.

The mother was too weak to nurse her babe, and to save the little one's life Mattei said he had cut his finger and allowed the child to drink his blood.

The couple were terribly emaciated. Food and lodgings were furnished them. Mattei tells an awful story of privation and suffering among the miners.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

The Legislature Adjourns to November.

The Question of Loans Causing Much Trouble—The Late Ministry to Stand for Re-Election.

Sydney, N. S. W., Oct. 28.—The legislature assembly yesterday adjourned over until November 18. During the interval the members of the late ministry will go before the people in the hope of re-election.

While Sir Henry Parkes, the ex-premier, does not intend to retire from political life, it is unlikely that he will assume the leadership of the opposition as he feels the necessity for a period of comparative rest.

Th new premier, Mr. Dibbs, yesterday delivered an address at Melbourne in which he declared that the enormous resources of the colony were absolute security for larger loans than the government had hitherto attempted to negotiate.

Henceforth, the premier said, the proceeds of loans would be applied to the construction of permanent public works. An immediate resort would be had to the customs duties for the bulk of the revenue. The premier contended that the carrying into practice of the theory of protection would result in the establishment of new industries and the increase of the demand for labor.

THE SECTION VOID.

Indiana Banks Will Not be Compelled To Give Depositors' Names.

Indianapolis, Oct. 28.—In August the state board of tax commissioners which was created by the last legislature fined Philip C. Decker, acting president of the German bank of Evansville, the sum of $500 for refusing to give the names of his individual depositors and the amounts on deposit to the credit of each.

He instituted habeas corpus proceedings and Judge Taylor, before whom the case was argued to-day, rendered a voluminous opinion in which he holds that the section giving the tax board the right to fine and imprison for contempt is unconstitutional and void.

DITCHED THE TRAIN.

St. Marys, Oct. 28.—By the dropping of a brake beam a car in train No. 56 on the Lake Erie & Western road at Blaine, forty miles west of this city, twelve cars loaded with grain and stock were thrown off the track and went into the ditch. Eastbound passenger trains Nos. 2 and 4 were compelled to transfer their passengers and trains are from three to four hours late. The wreck is one of the worst the company has experienced in some time.

CHAPLEAU HAS RESIGNED.

A Crisis Has Come to Canadian Affairs.

The Secretary of State Demands the Commissionership of the Railroads or He Wont Play.

New York, Oct. 28.—A special to the Press from Ottawa says that Hon. J. A. Chapleau, secretary of state, has resigned and precipitated a crisis, as it is generally believed the government cannot live without him.

Chapleau demands the portfolio of railways and canals as a condition of remaining in the cabinet.

THE PEOPLE ARE THINKING

And This Fact is Bothering Republicans.

Democrats in Columbus Are Jubilant.

Hamilton County Will Return a Democratic Majority and McKinley Will Be Defeated.

Columbus, Oct. 28.—Col. Neal and the democratic managers have been greatly encouraged during the past few days. They are growing jubilant over the prospects of democratic success. The din and rattle of republican tom-toms, the crash of brass bands and the burning of kerosene oil deafen the ears and offend the nostrils, but they don't make votes.

The reports from the county districts which are pouring in indicate that there will be large democratic gains on the tariff, and even the republican managers are forced to admit that there has been what they call "a great revival of democratic sentiment" within the past ten days.

One of them who has followed both McKinley and Campbell about the state says that Campbell is undoubtedly gaining ground every day, and if the present boom continues he predicts his election by a decisive majority.

The truth about McKinley's boasted meetings is leaking out gradually and is proving a boomerang. Their size and enthusiasm has been exaggerated beyond all bounds.

One of the most prominent republicans of the last congress, who is in the state making speeches for McKinley, said that he had been astounded at the manner in which McKinley's meetings had been magnified.

"To read the accounts in the republican newspapers," said he "would lead one to believe that the people of the state were marching cross lots in battalions and brigades to hear McKinley. Hundreds are swelled into thousands, and a small crowd develops in the republican printing shops to acres upon acres."

My meetings have been painfully small, and so were at least two of McKinley's meetings that I attended. He had less than 1,000 hearers each time and the republican papers the next morning reported that he had between 5,000 and 6,000. I read the accounts to McKinley at the breakfast table and looked him straight in the eye, but he did not flinch. I suppose he is used to that sort of thing. My own experience makes me anything but hopeful, but a perusal of the republican papers alone would make me confident enough, were I a betting man, to gamble all I had on the major's election."

Such sentiments as these are expressed by quite a number of republican stumpers in a burst of candor and confidence. The backbone of the republicans is stiffening up under such reports. They are gaining confidence and enthusiasm and, as the end approaches the courage of the republicans appears to be oozing out at their fingers' ends, as Bob Acres did when the sword was placed in his hand on the dueling field.

Democrats who a month ago were ready to concede McKinley's election are now emphatic in their belief that he will be defeated. The situation to the eye resembles that of a battle at its critical stage. The democrats have fought their antagonists to a standstill, the republicans are wavering all along the line, and if the tide of fortune does not change it may be a complete rout.

The republican managers here, with the exception of such sanguine individuals as Joe Smith, of Urbana, and Chairman Hahn, display anxiety and alarm. They seem to feel in their bones that something is going to happen.

They don't know exactly what it is, but they are girding themselves up to meet it. They have plenty of cash, and a concise, effective organization, by means of which they expect and hope to heal the breach when the break comes.

Advices from Hamilton county are to the effect that the democratic ticket will have 3,500 majority.

This fact is alarming the republicans, who will concentrate all their efforts to get up a big hurrah during the closing hours of the campaign.

At present writing they are much in the position of the boy in the graveyard—they are whistling to keep up their courage.

KISSED AND MADE UP.

Slosson and Shaefer Are No Longer Enemies.

The Victor Was Magnanimous and Another Match Will Soon Be Arranged Between the Two.

New York, Oct. 28.—Slosson and Schaefer, the great billiardists, have not only been opponents with the cue, but personally there has been ill-feeling between the men. This latter sentiment has been buried, however, by the magnanimous action of Slosson, who, after defeating his old-time enemy Monday night, went over to his vanquished foe, and, shaking him by the hand, spoke the first friendly words that had passed between them in many years.

Schaefer, immediately recognizing the generosity of Slosson, replied in kind and the two men agreed to bury the hatchet and become friends so far as social life is concerned.

With the cue, however, they will always be at daggers drawn and the first thing discussed between them after peace had been patched up was a proposal from Schaefer for a return match. It was agreed that one for the championship would be played at some date in the near future but the exact time has not yet been fixed.

George Kuntzsch, of Syracuse, has been in town trying to arrange a billiard tourney to take place at his hall some time in January. He will give $2,000 in prizes and wants entries. Schaefer signed and Slosson and Daly said they would as soon as Mr. Kuntzschs' plan took definite shape.

WHITELY'S SHOPS SOLD.

The Great Springfield Car Plant Bid in by a Syndicate.

Springfield, Oct. 28.—The great East street shops, the property of the Whitely-Fassler and the Kelley companies, were sold at public auction yesterday after two unsuccessful attempts.

The price received was $200,000 and the bidder was Scott Bonham, a young attorney of Cincinnati, but as to who are his clients he is absolutely non-committal.

On semi-official authority, however, it is stated that a company of stockholders of the Ohio Southern and C., H. & D. railroads are the purchasers and that the plant will be converted into a general repair and car shop for their roads.

The plant is one of the largest manufacturing establishments in the world, covering forty acres of ground, a greater part of the buildings being four and five stories high.

The town is greatly rejoiced over the sale, as the city's hard times has been due to the idleness of the great works.

INDICTED IN BOSTON.

Boston, Oct. 28.—The United States grand jury has indicted the officers of the Louisiana Lottery company for illegal use of the mails.

FORAKER CAN'T VOTE.

He Was so Busy Fighting Sherman that He Forgot to Register.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 28.—Unless the election board here stretches its authority considerably Ex-Governor Foraker cannot vote this fall. He has been so busy in working up a Foraker delegation to the general assembly that he forgot to register.

It will be humiliating for the man so engrossed with the frauds on the franchise in other states not to be allowed to vote in his own state.

KEYSTONE INVESTIGATORS.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Acting Secretary Spaulding has appointed J. P. P. Brown, Charles Shebel, W. J. Thompson and W. P. Moxey, experts to examine the Keystone and Spring Garden national banks of Philadelphia. These experts will be paid by the committee of 50 of Philadelphia and be under the direction of A. R. Barrett, chief expert of the secret service division treasury department.

CHANCE FOR SPECULATION.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Commissioner Raum of the pension bureau has received a letter from Minister Ryan at the City of Mexico, in which he states that national bank and legal tender notes of the United States bear a premium in Mexico of 30 per cent. In other words a legal tender or national bank note of the United States of the denomination of ten dollars will buy 13 Mexican dollars.

JUMPED INTO A WELL.

St. Louis, Oct. 28.—Mary Schleeder, aged 21, a servant in the employ of Dr. Wm. Cummings at 3060 Cass avenue, committed suicide yesterday by jumping into a well. The cause of the suicide is supposed to have been a love affair.

WILL OCCUPY THE OASIS.

Paris, Oct. 28.—The colonial councils committee on Algerian affairs has decided upon the immediate occupation of the Touat oases, to the title of which Morocco lays claim.

F. H. A. SCRIVENER DEAD.

London, Oct. 28.—Rev. Frederick H. A. Scrivener, LL. D., D. C. L., the noted biblical and Greek scholar, is dead.

THE CAMPAIGN IN IRELAND

Everything Points to Trouble Before Long.

The Two Factions Are as Bitter as Ever.

A Demonstration in Cork Which Does Not Argue Well for the Early Settlement of the Irish Factional Questions.

Cork, Oct. 28.—The campaign waxes hilarious and exciting. Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien have arrived here and were promptly seized upon by their enthusiastic followers, who insisted upon unhitching the horses from the carriage in which the leaders were seated.

When this had been accomplished Dr. Charles K. D. Tanner, M. P. for the middle division of the county of Cork, and a big fat priest were shoved, hauled and butted on to the carriage box.

A large body guard from Maurice Healy's quarter of the city, all armed with good, stout blackthorns, then surrounded the vehicle which, in the midst of a terrific yell, began its progress toward the assembly rooms.

The Healyites, with sticks waving in the air and uttering stentorian cheers for O'Brien and Dillon, marched in a compact mass in the roadway. On the sidewalks and side by side with their opponents, half-walked, half-trotted, a perspiring and hard-swearing throng of Parnellites, while between the two bodies of marchers went the police, manfully warning off occasional vicious blows of the blackthorns and always preserving the peace.

When the procession reached the assembly rooms and the two leaders attempted to address the vast crowd their voices were at once drowned in yells and cries of "murderers" "traitors!" "cowards!"

Finally the Parnellites gathered themselves together for a rush, and were sweeping down upon the Healyites when the mounted police charged them and drove them back.

The city is full of priests and peasants, all armed with cudgels. It is almost certain that a serious riot will occur sooner or later.

GOOD DEMOCRATIC NEWS.

Whitehouse, O., Oct. 28.—(Special)—The people of this place will help Foster Warren into office by an increased majority. They recognize the need of such a man on the county board.

Senator John Ryan will surprise his best friends with the vote he will poll here.

ELECTRIC RAILROAD.

London, Oct. 28.—At Leeds on Thursday next will be thrown open to the public the first electric railway to be operated in England by the overhead wire system. A trial of the new tramway was had yesterday, which proved a success.

THEY ALL CRY PEACE,

And at the Same Time Are Buying Powder.

What Took Place at the Interview Between King Umberto, M. De Giers and Count Nigra.

New York, Oct. 28.—A Paris cablegram to the Herald says: For the last two weeks the whole European press has been speaking of the Monza interview. Of what was said between the king of Italy and the Russian minister of foreign affairs several versions have been given. Here is the truth:

Three persons were in the room—King Humbert, M. De Giers and Count Nigra, the Italian ambassador at Vienna.

After having shaken the Russian minister's hands King Humbert said: "What does France want of us? Every moment there is some new incident. Now it is the pilgrims, again the Nice manifestation and nearly every day the frontier violations. She closes her markets to us. She wishes to ruin us. For what reason? Is it that she has something against Italy? No, it is against the monarchy.

"Without cessation she speaks of the triple alliance. Without ceasing she tries to make believe that she is about to be attacked, whereas she is the aggressor.

"We are pacific. We wish for peace. There is not a single word which concerns Russia in the treaty with Germany. It is only a treaty of defence and a treaty of defence against France. We wish for peace, protection, social order, peace, peace, peace."

King Humbert had grown heated. Little by little his very soft voice had been raised. M. De Giers then declared in a very calm and respectful tone that his master, the czar, also desired peace, that he had a horror of war and that he hoped strongly that his reign would terminate without his having to deplore a bloody war. Then he explained the reapproachment between France and Russia, which was quite pacific.

This is all that really passed at the Monza interview. Politics was not even mentioned during the rest of the day.

TEN IN ONE DAY.

Such is Jimmie Campbell's Speech Record.

Outside Interference in the Ohio Elections

Receives a Stinging Rebuke Among the Miners.

The Money Power Behind McKinley Exposed.

If the Carnegies and Other Protected Iron Masters Thought McKinley's Bill Raised Wages They Would Be Voting for Campbell Instead.

Athens, O., Oct. 28.—(Special)—When these dispatches closed yesterday Gov. Campbell's train was rushing into Athens where there were numerous indications that the people were awake to their own interests.

Men, women and children gathered along the line of the road and cheered the governor's train as it passed, and small flags and other decorations were displayed on the houses of the miners and farmers.

At Athens Junction the governor's party left the Toledo & Ohio Central road and took a special train on the Hocking Valley for Nelsonville. On the train were several coach loads of enthusiastic Athens democrats. They were en route to Nelsonville and Shawnee to attend the governor's meetings at these places.

At Nelsonville there were 2,000 people at the station to greet the governor and fully as many more in the Public square where the speaking took place.

The train reached Nelsonville shortly after 3 o'clock, and when it pulled into the station the cheers of the assembled people were in no manner lacking in volume and enthusiasm.

There was a carriage in waiting and to the tune of "The Campbells Are Coming," and the cheers of the vast multitude the governor was driven to the Public square. A stand had been erected and the decorations were of an elaborate nature. No time was lost in introducing the democratic standard bearer and he was given a magnificent ovation when he arose to speak.

Notwithstanding the hard work and the fact that he had already made three speeches the governor was in good voice.

At first he was the least bit hoarse but his throat soon cleared and it was but a few minutes before he had his audience laughing heartily as he showed up the absurdity of the claims of McKinley and other high tax advocates.

"Why is it," asked the governor, "that the manufacturers of Pittsburg take such a deep interest in the Ohio campaign? Why is it that they are sending clubs to Ohio to march in republican procession? The democratic meetings this year are composed entirely of Ohio voters. The home enthusiasm market is good enough for us. (Cheers.)

"The manufacturer say they are afraid my election will mean the cutting down of wages of American workingmen. Do you believe this? (Cries of "No," "No." "That's an old chestnut, governor.)

"But Major McKinley says it is so," retorted the governor with a sarcastic smile on his fact. (A voice: "Yes, and Major McKinley said he made tin at Piqua.")

This bright rejoinder called forth a burst of applause which lasted several seconds.

"To use a common expression," said the governor. "I see that you are on to the major's little game." (Applause and cries of "You are mighty right we are.")

Continuing, the governor said: "Now if the manufacturers thought my election meant the reduction of wages, don't you believe that Andrew Carnegie and the rest of these Pittsburgers who are so interested in getting high tariffs and low wages would turn in and whoop it up for Jimmy Campbell? (Cheers.)

"Don't you think they would send their big fat checks to the democratic committee instead of the republican committee? The Carnegies never fight the man who legislates to make wages low, and that is the reason they are not fighting McKinleyism. (Applause.)

"If my election meant the reduction of wages the manufacturing potters of East Liverpool wouldn't direct false affidavits at me. They wouldn't atempt to break up my meetings and then send out lying reports about my speech. I said there was no place in Ohio where labor was so oppressed and degraded as it is at East Liverpool. I still say so. (Cheers and cries of "Keep on fighting them, Jimmy.")

"They substitute the word 'hell' for the word 'Ohio.' Well, that is pretty strong language, but if the East Liverpool potter bosses insist upon it I don't know but I will accept their amendment. (Applause.) East Liverpool is a mighty bad place for labor, but I hardly think it is as bad as the highly protected potters would have it appear." (Applause.)

The governor then took up the question of farm mortgages and made many telling points.

From Nelsonville the governor went to New Straitsville, where a meeting of 1,200 had been got up on one hour's notice. He made a speech of a half hour and then went to Shawnee, driving two miles across the hills in order to make ten meetings.

This little city was crowded with enthusiastic miners and on all sides it is conceded that the meeting outnumbers the recent McKinley meeting two to one.

HE LEFT THE BUILDING,

But He Took Almost Everything Else.

A School Board Treasurer Who Is Badly Wanted by the People of Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Oct. 28.—The amount of School Board Treasurer Doerflinger's shortage is growing and will probably reach $50,000.

In addition to the $18,000 first missing, altered drafts aggregating $15,000 have been discovered. Besides this, deficits are reported in the accounts of the Dexter Spring company, Modern Building and Loan association and the estate of Archibald Wallace, of which Doerflinger was executor.

There seem to be no doubt that the young man attempted suicide when his shortage was discovered, but his life was saved by the prompt work of the physicians. Doerflinger is said to have gone to the country, but no one seems to know his exact whereabouts.

THE NATION'S EYES

Are Turned Toward the Buckeye State.

McKinleyism, and Not McKinley, is on Trial.

The Money of the Land Has Been Pitted

Against the Voice of the Masses at the Polls.

The Tolling Thousands Will Soon Render a Verdict that Will Be Eagerly Watched for All Over this Great Country.

Columbus, Oct. 28.—This week will close the most remarkable political campaign in the history of Ohio and one upon which more is staked. The people from ocean to ocean are watching with breathless interest the outcome of this battle royal between Gov. Campbell and Major McKinley, fought on an issue that has arrayed against the democrats all the protected industries of the country, whose enormous profits are threatened.

The importance of the contest extends far beyond the borders of Ohio. McKinleyism, not McKinley, is on trial. Defeat will deal it a death blow. With the downfall of the author of the present tariff law the democratic party will demand the abandonment of the ultra-protection theory.

Liberalism will take the place of radicalism. Corrections will follow and the bludgeon of reciprocity will be used to hammer down the high tariff walls which have been reared to destroy international commerce for the benefit of a few men who have grown rich beyond the dreams of avarice at the expense of the masses.

These selfish protected industries in other states have responded liberally to the calls for cash and thousands upon thousands have been poured into the lap of the republican committee to grease the wheels of the republican machine.

Twice the iron and steel kings of Pittsburg have planked down $25,000. The democrats have no such sources to draw from. They are fighting the battle of the people and the farmers, and money about democratic headquarters is as scarce as hen's teeth. In addition to the money at their disposal the leading republicans of the country are straining every nerve to save Major McKinley.

It is not that they love McKinley more but that defeat in Ohio would break the backbone of the party and render success next year an impossibility.

Nevertheless the democrats are making a great fight against these tremendous odds. Gov. Campbell has fought the devil with fire. He has charged the republican strongholds and driven in their lines.

The popular tide is in favor of the principles he represents and the republicans have felt obliged to camp on his trail to repair if possible the damage his speeches do.

Every speech he makes counts. He has displayed throughout the campaign a wonderful versatility in handling the tariff question which has surprised and gratified even his most enthusiastic admirers. In this respect the governor has been in striking contrast with Major McKinley, who has been inflicting the same speech on his audiences ever since he opened at Niles two months ago.

The republican papers have been obliged to quit printing them for this reason.

Ex-Gov. Foraker, who was here a day or two ago, made a remark to a republican friend of his which graphically illustrates the difference in the character of the speeches the two gubernatorial candidates are making.

"Soon after McKinley began parading up and down the state," remarked the ex-governor, "I met a prominent democratic politician, and I asked him why Campbell didn't take the track. He replied that after we had tired ourselves prancing around in front of the grand stand, Gov. Campbell would start in like a fresh horse and win the race. I think," went on the ex-governor, "that that democratic politician was right. That one speech of McKinley's won't last ten days longer."

That is the most caustic criticism that has been passed on McKinley since the campaign opened, and it is literally true. The major has been making the same speech over and over again. Gov. Campbell, on the other hand, has no parrot speech to deliver at each stopping place. Each speech has new features, new illustrations, new points—as they say on the play bills, he gives a "change of program with each performance."

The republicans have arranged to close the campaign with a grand hurrah. Forty meetings a day are planned for this week. Tom Reed, the despot who presided over the billion dollar congress, will invade the state, together with several other relics of the same congress like Cheadle of Indiana, Dunnell of Minnesota, Joe Cannon of Illinois and Burrows of Michigan, who were sent into retirement by the people of their districts last fall for the part they took in the revolutionary proceedings of that congress.

This is the second retirement Dunnell has suffered. This first was occasioned by the vote he cast for the "salary grab" in 1873. Dunnell had arranged to build a house with the money he voted himself, and the day the bill passed he telegraphed his wife: "Bill passed. Begin hauling sand."

That telegram beat him just as the fact that he voted for the McKinley bill, which "hauled sand" for the protected manufacturers, beat him last fall with the farmers of Minnesota.

Joe Cannon is the man who made a filthy remark on the floor of the house which drove the ladies from the galleries and earned for him the soubriquet of "Dirty Mouth" Cannon.

Both these men are statesmen out of a job, and will be down here this week making speeches for McKinley at $100 a speech.

On Saturday night the republicans have arranged for big mass meetings in all the big cities. McKinley and Cannon will speak at Cincinnati, Sherman and Cheadle at Alliance, Burrows and Foster at Toledo, and Tom Reed at Cleveland.

Altogether the republicans have held about 550 meetings under the supervision of the state committee, against 400 democratic meetings. They have had over seventy-five foreign speakers in the state. McKinley will have been exhibited in 80 counties when the campaign closes and will have delivered one speech 118 times. Gov. Campbell, who started a month later than McKinley, will have made 51 speeches.

GRATIFYING TO ALL.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup company.

How true it is that inflictions travel in pairs. They have the hog cholera and a new weather prophet in Illinois.

HERE'S AN ELEGANT CHANCE

For the Republican Claequers to Make Half a Thousand.

To the Editor: Inasmuch as a simple denial of the charges against me by the republican papers of the city relative to the disturbance at the so-called republican rally at Air Line Junction last week has not availed, and the sheets continue their attacks, I hereby desire to submit this proposition:

I will put up $500 against a similar amount from the Blade:

1. That I did not incite, nor in any way directly or indirectly encourage the disturbance.

2. That I did not ask anyone to go to the meeting for the purpose of creating the disturbance.

3. That I did not, during the meeting, say a word to anyone with the view of causing or encouraging the disturbance.

4. That I did not give liquor or money to anyone that they might create a disturbance.

In brief, that I had neither hand nor part in the ruction. What I can say and prove for myself I can say and prove for the Bee reporter, who has also been accused of being instrumental in getting up the row. RICHARD A. FORD, Air Line Hotel, Air Line Junction, October 27.

LOST HIS SIGHT.

A Sudden Flash Makes the Eyes of a Consolidated Motor Man Useless.

Charles Noble, a motor man on the Consolidated street railway, met with an accident last evening which has deprived him of his sight. He was running on the St. Clair street line when his car stopped at Monroe street and refused to move. Noble started to examine the motor, when there was a terrific flash immediately in front of his face, much in the nature of an explosion, and the sight was burned out of both his eyes. Noble is a comparatively young man with a wife and family, living at 2236 Thomas street, and has always been considered a careful motor man.

NEW BANKS.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Applications to organize national banks have been filed with Comptroller Lacey as follows:

The Old national bank of Spokane, Wash., by O. F. Hall, and his associates; the Huntsville national bank, Huntsville, Ala., by M. S. Wells, Pierre, S. D., and his associates, and the Volasco national bank, Velasco, Tex., by R. T. Ervin and his associates.

OKLAHOMA IS ALL ABLAZE

Raging Fires Sweeping Over the Land.

Farmers Made Homeless and Their Harvested Crops Devoured by the Conflagration.

Guthrie, O. T., Oct. 28.—Prairie fires have been sweeping over a large part of Oklahoma during the past four days and have done a great amount of damage.

South and southeast of this city the fires started last Friday night and are still burning. A large number of farmers had their hay and fodder burned and three or four lost their barns and outbuildings. It was only by hard work that many farmers saved their homes.

A farmer named Ytell is reported to have been badly burned while fighting the flames from his home, all his hay and fodder going up in smoke. Isaiah Smith had 50 and W. A. Bacher 30 tons of hay burned. From that neighborhood the fires swept on east into the Iowa country, where many of the new settlers were compelled to fly for their lives. A number of them lost their houses and contents and several had all their wagons and implements burned. It is feared the fire will obtain headway in the timber there and if it does great loss of property and life may occur.

A fire broke out near Paradise prairie, northeast of Guthrie, Saturday night and swept down the Cimarron valley, doing a great amount of damage. A number of cattle were burned. Cimarron City was in the path of the flames and but three houses were left standing. The people of the village had a hard fight with the flames and a number of them were severely burned. Hundreds of tons of hay and over 1,000 bushels of corn were destroyed in that vicinity. A number of farmers lost their homes.

The mail carrier between Mulhall and Perkins was caught in the fire and badly burned.

Another fire west of Guthrie did some damage last night and to-night the reflection of several fires can be seen. The growth of grass is very rank in all parts of the locality and unless great care is exercised thousands of dollars' worth of property and many lives will certainly be lost.

RAUM WOULD FILL THE BILL,

Or What's the Matter with McKinley After Election.

An Interesting Scramble Over the Governorship of Oklahoma Made Vacant by Steele's Resignation.

Washington, Oct. 28.—There seems to be a jolly row in Oklahoma over the governorship of that territory, made vacant by the resignation of Major Steele of Indiana.

There are a number of candidates, prominent among them being John I. Dille, formerly of Indiana; Jacob Admire, formerly of Kansas, and Jeff Seay, formerly of Missouri. Dille was register of the land office at Guthrie at the opening of Oklahoma and assisted materially in the looting of town sites. He stood in with a ring of land-grabbers and became famous, or, perhaps, infamous, for a time, through the receipt of a letter addressed to him by Secretary Noble, in which his conduct was reviewed at length and declared to be disgraceful.

Dille swallowed the medicine, however, and still holds his office, and now desires promotion to the governorship.

Dille was secretary of the state republican committee of Indiana during the last presidential campaign, and it is said that he is in possession of some secrets regarding that campaign which President Harrison is very anxious he should confine to his own bosom. This gives Dille a pull, and those who are on the inside here seem to think that he will capture the governorship in consequence.

Admire is the receiver of the land office at Kingfisher, and he, too, had considerable to do with land-looting and claim-jumping and "sooner booming." He helped some prominent republican politicians to gobble up some available town sites at the opening of Oklahoma, and in consequence his indorsements for the governorship are strong.

Jeff Seay is at present justice of the supreme court. He is an old Missourian and would make a very satisfactory governor from all accounts. He is certainly the best man mentioned for the place, but his chances are very slim, to say the least, because his pull is not extensive and he had no opportunity to assist the Claytons and other republican bosses to gobble up land at the opening of the country.

The negroes have indorsed a man named McCabe for the governorship. He lives at the town of Langston, the capital of the negro settlement. McCabe was formerly auditor of the state of Kansas, and he is said to be a man of parts. The negroes are pushing the demand for his appointment with considerable vigor, and it is said that they are embarrassing Harrison, who, of course, does not want to appoint McCabe, but is very anxious to conciliate the negro vote between now and the meeting of the republican national convention.

You can break up a bad cold by the timely use of Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, an old and popular medicine for sore lungs and throats, and the best of all cough remedies.

Science is a big thing. It makes sugar from coal tar. It can do everything except make maple sugar from Vermont.

SUGAR WON'T SWEETEN

The Dose Fixed Up for Ohioans by McKinley.

Bribed by a Bounty They Have Not Secured.

The Maple Sugar Producers of the State Have Been Forced to Pay a Thirty Per Cent. Advance on Their Tin Cans.

Bellefontaine, Oct. 28.—Democratic enthusiasm has been at a higher pitch since the great Campbell meeting here than ever before. Logan has for years been a strongly republican county, but the old-time majority is threatened if all signs do not fail.

This is one of the leading wool growing sections of the state, and the farmers owning sheep have a serious grievance against McKinley and his bill.

A fall in the price of fleeces from 32 to 28 cents a pound is a little more than the farmers will tolerate, even though Judge Lawrence, the shepherd of protected flocks, winds his concha and shakes his staff in their midst.

Another cause of grave disaffection among the republican farmers is the tariff on tin. This county produces an immense amount of maple sugar, wax and syrup.

The McKinley bill provided for a bounty to the producer, but on the other hand it increased the tariff on tin and, while the bounty business did not go into effect in time to apply to this year's output the tax on tin did.

As a consequence the producers of maple syrup were compelled to pay a higher price for their cans, and to this injury was added the insult of a bribe, called a bounty, which did not materialize.

The increased cost of tin cans takes a good-sized slice out of their profits, and this coming with the decreased price of wool causes not a few farmers of Logan county to await Nov. 3 with a great deal of impatience.

It is upon the dealers in maple goods, however, that the tariff on tin comes with its most crushing weight.

J. W. Gaskill, head of the firm of J. W. Gaskill & Co., of West Liberty, the largest dealers in maple goods in the state, gives the statement that through the tax on tin he was compelled to pay just 30 per cent. more for his cans this year than last.

Mr. Gaskill is a life-long republican, barring the tax on tin, hence his story is not colored by political prejudice or an overzeal on behalf of the democratic cause.

"For some years past," said Mr. Gaskill, "I have bought my cans of Kirwan & Taylor, of Baltimore. In January, 1891, I wrote this firm requesting prices on 1,200 cases of empty 2, 3, 5 and 10-pound cans, the sizes used by canners of fruits and vegetables.

In answer to my inquiry I received a letter from them stating that in consequence of increased tariff rates—which you understand took effect six months after the writing of this letter—they would be obliged to advance prices about 30 per cent.

The injustice of this demand was so evident that I expressed my opinion freely to them on their combination as being fostered by this affliction known as McKinley's tariff bill, adding that I hoped their workmen would get the benefit of this 30 per cent. increase.

However, I was obliged to have the cans, and after writing to perhaps a half dozen other can manufacturers, I found that I could do no better, so I ordered of this firm."

The following table shows the increase in some of the cans of sizes most largely used:

	Per hundred. Last year.	This year.
2-lb cans	$1.80	$2.10
3-lb cans	2.35	3.00
6-lb cans	3.75	5.00
Gallon cans	5.25	7.00
Gallon screw tops	6.50	8.50

"Last spring," continued Mr. Gaskill, "E. E. Shedd & Sons, of Columbus, wrote me for the price of my "Native Purity" maple syrup. To them I quoted prices the same as the previous year, but could make no further concession in consequence of advance in tin cans brought about by a "combination of manufacturers who anticipated" an advance on tin plate. To this firm I denounced the tariff bill as an affliction and an outrage upon the American people, and expressed the hope and belief that in time it would work out its own destruction.

"Shedd & Sons sent my letter to Norton Brothers, can manufacturers at Chicago, who mailed me a $2 can which I have in my possession. This tin and can Norton Brothers claim is made by them, and they now quote it at $2.30 per 100, against $1.80 per 100 for the same size can bought by me from Kirwin & Taylor, Baltimore, in 1890.

"In addition to this, Norton Brothers demand 15 cents per 100 extra for a patent hemmed cap, making the cost of their cans complete at this date $2.45 per 100. Notwithstanding this enormous increase in price over the cans formerly furnished by Norton Brothers, I was struck with the quality of the cans, and decided to purchase a large supply of "American" cans, largely for the sake of the advertisement of my business.

"But when I sent in my order I was informed that the American tin plate mills of Norton Brothers were in such the same condition as that at Piqua—'overstocked with orders from nearby parties and unable to fill any others.'"

GOSSIP FROM FINDLAY.

Old Timers Who Refuse to Register in Hancock.

Crisp's Big Meetings—Everything Ready for the Election Next Week—General Mention.

Findlay, Oct. 28.—(Special)—It is estimated that at least 500 voters in this city for various reasons failed to register. Among the number are several well-known republicans and a number of old-time democrats, who did not favor the new registration law. The increase in the city over last spring is about 500 votes.

Child Drowned.

A little five-year-old son of James M. Cook, residing on Washington street, went over into a neighboring yard yesterday and fell into an open cistern and was drowned. The little fellow was standing upright with his head submerged holding up his hat when rescued. Every effort was made to resuscitate him, but in vain. His mother is lying very low with typhoid fever and it is feared the shock will kill her. The funeral will be held on Thursday morning.

New Hospital.

Our city now has a hospital and a suitable home for friendless women and children. The old Howard homestead on North Main street has been leased for a term of five years and it will be fitted up comfortably and nice, and prove a blessing in many ways. Findlay's kind ladies have worked zealously to accomplish this object.

Ready for the Battle.

All the townships and precincts of the county now have their election booths, railings, etc., required under the new ballot law, and will be ready for business at the old stand, but under new arrangements. It has taken a large amount of work to get everything arranged for the new mode of voting, but the result will undoubtedly justify the efforts.

The total expense to the county for the booths was about $500. They were manufactured by a well-known Findlay firm.

New Iron Bridge.

Yesterday the county commissioners were opening and awarding the contract for building a substantial iron bridge across the Blanchard river in the village of Mt. Blanchard. There was a total of 15 bidders present from all parts of the country, and competition among them was red hot.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

Of Republican Boodle Poured Into This District

To Induce Democrats to Refrain from Voting—An Insult to the Intelligence and Honesty of American Manhood.

The lavish display of boodle in the reception to McKinley last night corroborates the statements made in this paper the past three or four days relative to the bushels of boodle that was being poured into the state by the tariff robber barons of Pennsylvania.

The local republican organization has received its share of the swag, and there is money galore for one and all.

Campbell truly said in his speech at Memorial hall that Carnegie alone would put more money into the Ohio campaign for the purpose of defeating the democratic nominee for governor than the democratic party has used for legitimate campaign expenses in the state in 20 years.

The effort in getting up last night's demonstration cost more money than the democrats have expended in Lucas county in five years.

Railroad tickets to Sandusky costing $1 a piece were literally scattered, like so many dodgers, all over the city.

The latest scheme concerted by the desperate followers of McKinleyism is to induce democratic workingmen to remain away from the polls on election day. Monetary inducements are to be held out to such as will accept the blood money, for such it really amounts to.

This was to be a campaign of education, but it turns out to be a campaign of boodle as far as the republicans are concerned.

There is only one thing for democrats to do—go to the polls and vote the ticket straight. There is no reason, perhaps, why the workingmen of Toledo should not take and enjoy some of the booty stolen for campaign purposes from their brethren in Pittsburg, and it would not be a bad plan to accept the money. If it cannot be returned to the rightful owners, why use it for some charitable purpose, comforting the sick, for instance. There will be a lot of very sick republicans in this neck of woods Nov. 4.

The great Dr. Boerhaave left three directions for preserving the health—keep the feet warm, the head cool, and the bowels open. Had he practiced in our day he might have added: and purify the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla: for he certainly would consider it the best.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings in the neck; which causes running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. It is the most ancient of all diseases, and very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. If you suffer from scrofula, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Every spring my wife and children have been troubled with scrofula, my little boy, three years old, being a terrible sufferer. Last spring he was one mass of sores from head to feet. We all took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and all have been cured of the scrofula. My little boy is entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy." W. B. Nervous Debility.

Those suffering from Nervous Debility, the symptoms of which are a dull distressed mind, which unfits them for performing business and social duties; make happy marriages impossible, distress the action of the heart, causing flushes of heat, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, cowardice, fear, dreams, short breathings, melancholy, tire easily of company and have a preference to be alone; feeling as tired in the morning as when retiring; lost manhood, white bone deposits in the urine, nervousness, trembling, confusion of thoughts, watery and weak eyes, dyspepsia, constipation, paleness, pain and weakness in the limbs, etc., should consult us immediately and be restored to health. By a wise course of treatment, adapted to your age, sex and physical condition, the tone of your system can be raised, the tendency to impure thoughts removed, and the strength and vigor of health restored to the debilitated organs.

Organal Weakness

Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affliction which renders life a burden and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by victims of improper indulgence. The most chaste must acknowledge that the passions are the great magnet by which the whole world is attracted. Destroy them and what have we? Man is no longer interested in the opposite sex; the interchange of that blissful repose which attracts and interests the whole world, exists no longer; man ceases to be what God made him; the world is no longer interesting to him, and remorse and disappointment are his constant companions. We have devoted years to the study of the best methods of treating the various forms in which this disease manifests itself. We treat every case on its own merits; and thousands to-day join in thanking us for the new lease of life and happiness our skill has opened up to them.

Marriage.

Married persons or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualifications, speedily relieved. He who places himself under our care may confide in our honor as gentlemen, and confidently rely on our skill as Physicians. We have had many years experience in hospitals and private practice and are graduates of the most eminent Medical Colleges of the U. S.

Young Men who have become victims of SOLITARY VICE—that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave, thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with full confidence.

We address all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for business, study, society or marriage.

A CURE WARRANTED.

PERSONS RUINED IN HEALTH by UNLEARNED PRETENDERS, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving POISONOUS AND INJURIOUS COMPOUNDS, should apply immediately.

QUAY WAS IN IT.

More Sensations in the Keystone Affair.

Bankers Paid for the Republican Campaign.

Treasurer Boyer Stands Behind His Friends

And Refuses to Answer the Questions Asked.

The Greatest Day Yet Reached in the Efforts of the Democracy of Pennsylvania to Catch the Republican Thieves Who Have Been Plundering the Public Crib.

New York, Oct. 28.—The World this morning publishes a special dispatch from Philadelphia which says that tangible evidence of the intimate financial relations of John Bardsley and Senator Quay was discovered yesterday.

It is in the form of a due bill, which shows that Bardsley drew from the Keystone bank on Nov. 29, 1889, $8,877, and despatched it to Quay.

Mr. Quay deposited the bill in his bank at Beaver and the Keystone bank paid it as the indorsement shows.

Refused to Answer.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 28.—(Special)—During the senate investigation yesterday Attorney General Henzel said he desired to ask Mr. Boyer "Whether or not he knew, at the time of his election, of John Bardsley carrying a balance of state money at the Keystone bank, and whether he made any agreement to permit it to remain there, and whether he knew of any agreement whereby interest on it was to be paid to Mr. Quay or Mr. Bardsley, or any one else?"

Objection was raised to this question by the republican senators on the ground that it went beyond the term of Mr. Boyer's incumbency. The presiding officer of the senate, Lieut. Gov. Watres, ruled the question out. There was a significance back of the attorney general's question and the republicans had got wind of its import. Mr. Hensel and Receiver Yardley, of the Keystone bank, ready to go on the stand and identify a certificate of deposit found among the Keystone's papers, payable to Mr. Quay. Mr. Hensel had the certificate in his hand during the questioning of Mr. Boyer.

Quay on the Rack.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 28.—Senator Quay was seen at his home in Beaver at an early hour this morning, in regard to the certificate of deposit for $8,877 from the Keystone bank to Bardsley, made payable by him to Senator Quay, through the Beaver Deposit bank on November 29, 1889.

He made the following statement: "In October, not November, I gave a note to gentlemen representing the republican city committee of Philadelphia for $9,000 upon which to raise that amount of money for the campaign of that year.

"Of what was done with it I know nothing personally, except that the note was afterward returned to me canceled, paid, as I understand, by the republican state committee.

"The Bardsley draft is for the amount of the note, less the discount. I had forgotten the details, but presume that Bardsley procured the discount of the note for the holders, taking a certificate of deposit in his own name, which was forwarded to me for indorsement, and that I deposited the certificate here and sent my check for the $9,000 to Philadelphia.

"The gentlemen whom the note was from can, and I have no doubt will, explain the transaction. I know nothing of Bardsley in it, except that his name appeared in connection with the certificate, and had no communication with him then or since upon the subject."

The senator said he was satisfied that the date, November 29, was a forgery, because the transaction had occurred in October, within ten days prior to the election.

CLOSED THE SCHOOLS

In Order to Boom the McKinley Meeting.

Action Taken by the Republican Managers Which Will Rise to Haunt Them in Future Years.

Stryker, O., Oct. 28.—(Special)—The republican schemers have gone one step too far in their efforts to boom McKinley and his false pretense campaign.

They were not content with spreading falsehood before the country. In an effort to break down the tide of popular sentiment that is flowing toward Campbell, the republican managers have caused the public schools to be closed here so that the children could help swell the crowds at the McKinley-Sherman meeting in Bryan.

The action has met with open censure from both democrats and republicans, who claim they pay taxes for school purposes and not for political purposes.

A BIG LOAN.

Melbourne, Oct. 28.—The proposal to issue a loan of $50,000,000 at 4 per cent. for railway construction purposes has been modified so as to provide for a total issue of $30,000,000, of which $10,000,000 is to be raised annually for three years. The first subscription of $10,000,000 is to be offered in July, 1892.

A DEBTOR'S SUMMONS.

Dublin, Oct. 28.—The police have applied to the bankruptcy court for a debtor's summons against Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien on the ground that they have jumped bail in the Tipperary proceedings and that no chattels have been found with which to satisfy the claim against them. The judge decided that the police could not act as creditors and dismissed the proceedings.

DIED FROM A DEBAUCH.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—The official report on the Starodob riots states that after the town had been looted and the Jews driven out the peasants indulged so freely in liquor that many died from the effects of the debauch.

RAILROAD MEN

Waited on Major McKinley to Protest Against Squire.

Among the many that called on the Hon. Wm. McKinley at the Boody house this morning was a delegation of railroad engineers and conductors, and the object of this visit was to protest against the appointment of W. I. Squire, or any one he might name, to the office of state railroad commissioner.

McKinley was not foolish enough at this time to refuse anything they asked for. The railroad vote of Ohio is not to be thus ruthlessly thrown away. The boys got the necessary promise. The only way, however, to make sure of the matter is to vote for Campbell, who will not make an appointment not satisfactory to the railroaders.

CANDIDATE WECKERLY.

An Estimate of Him From His Neighbors.

To the Editor: John Weckerly, candidate for representative on the democratic ticket, is a man born and raised here. He is a farmer and owns the famous Weckerly Combination mills, one mile from town. He is well to do, and has earned every dollar of his property himself by hard work.

He has never been defeated in an election canvass for office, never sought office, but has filled the office of township treasurer, trustee, decennial assessor and others, always giving the best of satisfaction. His integrity has never been doubted. He administered every duty with impartiality to all and is a favorite of all parties and classes.

He belongs to the labor organizations and K. of P., is a well educated and self-made man.

His neighbors and those who know him best will vote for him without regard to party, as usual, knowing that all their interests will be well and faithfully represented and cared for.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Locally the Pot is Boiling and Bubbling Over.

The Board of Elections Refuse to Give Instructions—The Hibernian's Advice.

A close scrutiny of the vote registered in this city gives great hopes of a splendid democratic victory in Lucas county. The democratic gains in the Second, Third and Sixth wards will be a surprise to many when the vote is counted on the evening of November 3. Several precincts in the Fourth and Eighth will also pile up larger democratic majorities than ever before.

Ryan and Canary are making a strong canvass in the interest of the democratic party, for the success of the former means the success of the latter. Vote for Ryan and Canary for the senate.

The board of elections, after discussing the matter for several days, decided not to give the judges of elections any instructions, but allow them to interpret the law to suit themselves. This will cause a great deal of trouble, and the only safe way for democrats to do is to vote their ticket straight. An Eighth ward Irishman who went before the board for instructions was told to read the law for himself. "I'll just tell them," said he, "to make the sign of the cross and let 'er go."

The five or six self-appointed leaders who have undertaken to turn over the vote of all the unions attached to the Central Labor union may hoodwink the republican executive committee, but they cannot pull the wool over the eyes of the workingmen of Toledo. There is no man, no clique, no ring, that can truthfully say he can deliver a single workingman's vote except his own to any party, and when anyone says different they simply lie.

Foster Warren has had experience as commissioner and there is scarcely a man in the county who is willing to make the statement that he would not be a vast improvement on Jake Englehardt. Profligacy in expenditure would cease with Warren's election. Vote for Warren.

They have found the man who made that dollar on account of the McKinley bill. He has been seen peddling dodgers announcing republican meetings recently at Air Line Junction, the First and Fourth wards, and other places. He got several of the dollars shipped in here from Pittsburg to help McKinley. The money was stolen from the iron workers of Pittsburg, and this fellow gets some of it.

The democrats of Lucas county, at the request of the laboring men, nominated two of their number—R. F. Booth for the legislature and Willard Van Wormer for infirmary director. They have now a chance to show their appreciation by giving both a large majority.

Dr. Beckwith, republican nominee for coroner, who made such a fool bargain with Dr. Henzler to give him the autopsies and post mortems, is regarded as practically out of the race. 'Tis well.

Harry Dowling has made a clean canvass, and has not occupied his time telling fairy stories about his opponent, because of which fact he will distance Mr. Stuart to the extent of about a thousand majority. It is really thought by many that the people's party candidate, Mr. Sam Montgomery, will lead Stuart.

Willard Van Wormer is a workingman, and deserves the support of all such. As infirmary director he would be the right man in the right place. "Van" will be remembered as the efficient grand marshal of labor's hosts on Labor day.

Lucas county's three democratic nominees for the legislature will not vote for Sherman or Foraker for United States senator. This much is settled. Griffin Flickinger and Heller will vote for either of them. Vote for the democratic candidates by all means.

There is nothing to prevent Lucas county democrats from securing a victory next Tuesday except over-confidence. The voters have registered; let them get to the polls early on election morning.

It is not out of the bounds of probability to say that Wood county will cast a majority for Ryan and Canary. This is as it should be. Wood county is getting its eyes open.

THE EMPIRE STATE EXPRESS.

The management of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad announces that on Monday, October 26, that company will place in service the fastest regular passenger train in the world.

The new record breaker is to be called the "Empire State Express," and leaving Grand Central station, New York, in the morning at 9 o'clock will arrive at Buffalo at 5:40 p. m., making the run in 8 hours and 40 minutes, or 52 1-3 miles per hour, exclusive of stops.

The new train will stop at Albany at 11:45 a. m., Utica 1:40 p. m., Syracuse 2:45 p. m., Rochester 4:06 p. m.

The Empire State Express will consist of one combination buffet and smoking car, one Wagner palace drawing-room car and two standard New York Central coaches.

Where's Griffin All This Time?

In the event of the next house of representatives having a republican majority, there will be an interesting contest for the speakership, with Hon. L. C. Laylin of Huron, Hon. S. M. Taylor of Champaign and Hon. H. C. Daugherty of Fayette as the leading candidates. Messrs. Laylin and Taylor are nominated for the third term, while Mr. Daugherty is on the ticket for a second term. All are strong men, but Mr. Laylin has the prestige of being the caucus nominee of his party two years ago when the house was democratic. Each of the gentlemen is backed by a strong republican county and reasonably sure of election.—Columbus Dispatch.

As Viewed From the Outside.

The democrats of Lucas county have as good a ticket as ever was offered for the suffrages of the people, and in the interest of good government and lower taxes. The whole ticket should be elected.—Kent News.

All the leading bakers in the city use Taylor's flour

LAUGHED AT THE GUNS,

And Kept Right On Catching Seals,

With the Result that the Market is Overstocked.

The Fall Sales in London Promise Disaster to the Men Who Invested Their Money in the Enterprise.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 28.—Sealing men are looking very blue and one has not far to look for the cause. The fall sales at London which determine prices for the year were held on Monday, and instead of sealskins being in demand at high figures, they found an overstocked market, and purchasers who considered 60 shillings an excessive price.

The ruling quotation was 57 shillings, or about $13, and at this figure the only business done was transacted.

Eighteen dollars, it will be remembered, was the standard last fall, but owing to the closing of Bering sea and the consequent light catch those identified with the industry were hopeful that on Monday $20 would be freely offered.

When the report was received many and loud were the expressions of disappointment.

The loss to those connected with sealing will be heavy, and to not a few so low a price will mean serious financial embarrassment.

There is little speculation in skins now, and those who have made a careful study of the situation say that next year a further drop may be looked for.

One prominent operator and owner of schooners goes so far as to say that if sealskins bring $8 net next year it will be an agreeable surprise to him. His opinion is shared by many others.

Buyers' agents here, working upon the theory that the modus vivendi and the consequent curtailed catch would affect the market for skins, have accepted all skins offered on the arrival of schooners, giving $14.50, $15, and even as high as $17 a skin.

This necessitates refunds in nearly every case, and it is now a certainty that every schooner which secured less than 1,000 skins has lost money. More than nineteen-twentieths of the 1891 catch reached London in time for the sales.

The low prices can only be accounted for in one way. The reports of the large number of seals met with in Behring sea reached the principal buyers and caused them to anticipate unusually large catches, such as would undoubtedly have been made had not the modus vivendi prevented the sealers from availing themselves of the good things in sight.

The news from London has completely altered the position of affairs here, and several persons who had sent east to buy schooners for the fleet have cancelled their orders.

The schooners now on their way around will reach a profitless market, and some resident owners are now casting about to find other business for their floating property.

The cost of fitting out vessels, added to wages and other expenses connected with the sealing industry, leaves so small if any margin of profit at ruling prices, that few of the old hands will care to send out their vessels next spring.

A LESSON.

John Croke Goes to the Workhouse for Abusing His Family.

John Croke, living at 2034 Hewey street, was convicted in police court this morning of abusing his family and sentenced to 20 days in the workhouse and to pay the costs. As in most of these cases, drink caused his downfall, and for some months Croke has failed to support his family, besides shamefully abusing his wife and calling her vile names in the presence of her children.

FAILED TO REPORT.

A Second-Hand Dealer Up in Police Court.

It Is a Test Case and More May Follow—The Law in the Matter.

The case in police court against S. Winaman, the St. Clair street second-hand dealer, for failing to report goods bought and dealing with minors, was this morning continued until Friday. Other second-hand dealers down in Toledo's "Baxter street district" are watching this case with considerable interest, for if he is convicted more of them may soon find themselves in the toils.

The law regarding second-hand dealers is as follows:

AN ACT

To amend section 4413 of the Revised Statutes of Ohio, as amended March 26, 1886 (vol. 83, p. 42).

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, that section 4413 of the Revised Statutes as amended March 26, 1886, be so amended to read as follows:

Sec. 4413. Any person who purchases, sells, exchanges, or receives second-hand furniture, second-hand articles of any kind, scrap-iron, old metal, canvas, rope, junk or lead pipe, except plow irons and old stoves, and furniture, shall put up in a conspicuous place, in or upon his shop, store, wagon, boat, or other place of business, a sign, having his name and occupation legibly inscribed thereon, and shall keep a separate book open to inspection by any member of any police force, city marshal or constable, or any other person, in which shall be written in the English language, at the time of every purchase or exchange of any of the articles above mentioned, a description thereof, the name, description and residence of the person from whom purchased and received, and the day and hour when such purchase or exchange was made; each entry shall be numbered consecutively, commencing with number one, and any and all of such articles so purchased or exchanged, shall be retained by the purchaser for at least 30 days before disposing of the same, and kept in an accessible place in the building where such articles are purchased or received, and a tag attached to such article in some visible and convenient place, with the number written thereon corresponding to the entry number on the book. And any such purchaser shall prepare and deliver every day to the mayor of the city in which such business is carried on, before the hours of 12 o'clock m., a legible and correct copy, written in English from such book, a description of all such purchases, purchased or received during the preceding day, together with the hour at which the purchase or purchases were made, together with a description of the person or persons from whom the same was purchased.

Sec. 2. That section 4413 of the Revised Statutes of Ohio, as amended March 26 1886 (vol. 83, p. 42), be and the same is hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

ELBERT L. LAMPSON,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
WM. C. LYON,
President of the Senate.

Passed March 19, 1889.

Not to Deal With Minors.

Sec. 4414. No person shall directly or indirectly purchase or receive by way of barter or exchange, or otherwise, any of said articles of any minor or apprentice, knowing or having reason to believe him to be such; nor from any person whatever between the hours of 9 o'clock at night and 7 o'clock in the morning; and whoever violates any provisions of this of the preceding section shall not be fined not more than $500. THE MAUMEE ROLLING MILLS

Will Have Gas if the City Has Gas to Give.

The agitation on the East Side over the decision of the gas trustees to cut off the gas from the rolling mill continues unabated.

t was reported this morning that the rolling mill people proposed enjoining the city from cutting off the gas.

President Walbridge was asked by a Bee what truth there was in the report.

"I don't know anything about it," he said, "but I think we should have gas if the city has gas to give consumers. We were first notified that we would have to use meters, then that we would be obliged to pay 8 cents, then we were notified that the gas would be cut off. Now we have not refused to pay 8 cents or to put in a meter."

"Will you return to coal in the event o your gas being cut off?"

"I don't know what we may do. We will do something."

RAILROAD WRECK.

Flagstaff, Ariz., Oct. 28.—At Pine Vetas, 60 miles west of this place at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, the San Francisco express on the Atlantic & Pacific road, was thrown from the track while running at the rate of 40 miles per hour. Almost every person on board received some injury, and several were seriously hurt. Mrs. Mary Kistler, of Kingman, Ks., will probably die.

FIRED HIS OWN SALUTE.

How McKinley Was Received at Oak Harbor.

Ottawa County Wants None of His Protection—A Big Democratic Vote This Fall.

Oak Harbor, Oct. 28.—(Special)—Hand bills scattered all about town announced that Major McKinley would pass through on the W & L. E. railroad yesterday, and would speak at the depot.

The major came, with a cannon on a flat car, and fired his own salute, much to the amusement of our people.

He stepped out on the platform to address a vast concourse of just six republican wheel horses and a lot of small boys who cheered so persistently for Campbell that the pet of protection could not proceed with his address, but returned in chagrin to his car.

Campbell will get the largest majority ever given from Ottawa, as the county seat fight will bring out a full vote.

The town hall at LaCarne was filled full to hear H. L. Stewart, democratic candidate for senator, and Mr. Chrisshardt, editor of the Zeitung, who spoke in German.

The people's party is falling in line for Campbell here, although the republicans have sent an alleged advocate of the third party movement here to organize a break in the democratic strength.

The bakers know what is the best and cheapest flour to buy—Taylor's flour.

Messrs. J. W. Greene & Co. are in excellent humor. Trade with them has been good in their new quarters. Purchasing all their goods direct from the manufacturer, and having cheap rents, they are enabled to sell cheaper than those who have Summit street rents to pay, or have to procure their instruments through dealers instead of direct from the manufacturers. If you desire a good piano or organ at a reasonable price, call on J. W. Greene & Co., Pythian Castle.

Mrs. Beecher of Adrian is the guest of Mrs. Frank King.

Mrs. J. V. Taylor left for an eastern trip yesterday and will be absent several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Crosby have rented the Moore residence on Twenty-second street for the winter.

Mr. William T. Briggs, of Johnstown, N. Y., is spending the day with his brother, S. L. Briggs.

Mr. M. C. Moore has gone to Chicago on a business trip and will join his family in the south during the winter.

Mrs. Murray C. Moore and Master Edward left for Marietta yesterday morning and will be absent several months.

Mr. John M. Carson, Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, is in Toledo to-day, studying the political situation. He regards Ohio as a doubtful state.

Mrs. G. W. Fague of this city left yesterday for California, where she will spend the winter. She was accompanied by Mr. J. D. Leland, who will join his wife in Los Angeles, where she is lying seriously ill.

Mrs. Wm. Woodruff of Cleveland, with her son Jamie, is visiting her husband's mother, Mrs. C. D. Woodruff, 553 Walbridge avenue. It is likely Mrs. Woodruff will return with her to Cleveland for the winter.

At St. Louis' church, East Side, yesterday morning, was solemnized the marriage of Will Epker and Addie Gauthier. The bride was attired in white albatros and was attended by her sister, Miss Malvina Gauthier. The wedding dinner was served by the bride's parents and the supper at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Epker, 1308 Russell street, where the young couple will for the present reside. The groom is 18 years of age and the bride 16 years.

DAVITT ACCEPTS.

HOW TO VOTE.

All persons who are opposed to McKinley and high taxes should vote just this way: Put an X at the left of the words "Democratic Ticket," thus:

X | DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

The forlorn hope of the fat-frying protectionists will be very forlorn next Wednesday.

The crowd at Memorial hall yelled when McKinley mentioned Blaine's name last night, yet Blaine says without the reciprocity clause the McKinley law is worthless.

There will be a full vote in Toledo. The immense meetings which both parties hold indicate that, and on a full vote this year the democrats have nothing to fear. There is certain victory in store for our party.

The protective tariff is a tax on the foreign trader, so its advocates tell us. Why then is a "rebate" declared on certain manufactured goods that go out of the country? Will some "primer" ruler please answer.

The majority which Gov. Campbell will have in Hamilton county will help swell the figures which are bound to be large. From every quarter of the state the news is encouraging. It is even predicted that Cuyahoga county will give a democratic majority this year.

Mr. McKinley conceded the whole democratic doctrine last night in one inadvertant admission:

The protective tariff may be a tax for a time, but, etc.,—

"For a time" is very indefinite. If the republican party and its protected moneyed bosses have their way it will be for as long a time as there is any substance to drain from the land or the people. The infants that needed 7 per cent. protection in their babyhood, now lustily demand 60 per cent., and some of them are still equally for more.

The Prince has come and gone. He came amid the blare of trumpets and the thunder of cannon. The enthusiasm of the people was helped along by the lavish expenditure of money which the tax-fattened men of Pittsburg contributed to the local republican treasury. The Prince moves with a royal train. There is no lack of money and money makes McKinley's canvass a hurrah time. The fat fryers are having a jolly time with the taxes which the people have paid.

Still, while the Prince was in Toledo, he did not deign to point to a single workingman whose wages have been advanced by the McKinley tariff bill. He couldn't do it.

The republican newspapers of this senatorial district have tried in vain to trump up something to say against John W. Canary ,of Wood county, one of the democratic candidates for the state senate. The more they search the closer they get to a man with a clean record as a citizen, a soldier and a public servant. They can't find a thing to say against him except that formerly he was a republican. Well, our friends the enemy, are to be forgiven for feeling badly about that, because there are so many thousands like John Canary who have come over to democracy that the republican party long since passed into a helpless minority. Mr. Canary will not only be elected, but he will take high rank as one of the ablest leaders in the next general assembly.

Mr. McKinley explained very much in his Memorial hall speech last night when he said "we have a tax for the protection of the American manufacturer and incidentally for the American workingman." The fat-frying process by which more than two hundred thousand dollars have been put into the present Ohio campaign by the republican tax-favored manufacturers of Pennsylvania and other eastern states is proof enough that Mr. McKinley is right in saying "we have a tax for the protection of the manufacturers." They can expend millions which such congressmen as McKinley have voted them in trying to elect such as McKinley. He is the Prince, and right royally do they support him.

But what of the American workingmen? McKinley says they are "incidentally protected." The crumbs which fall from the table of protection is their portion, so publicly declared by the man who knows all about it. What is left after the Carnegies fill their coffers the workingmen may have. And this is the law which Major McKinley said, a few months ago, was passed for the benefit of American labor! How times have changed. A few years ago the republicans used to talk about incidental protection to manufacturers—the country and labor first, maunfacturers second. Now, labor, by the pronunciamento of the Prince of Protection, comes last. But McKinley is obliged to pipe the tune which his masters set, for though a Prince, he is the creature of the tariff-fattened monopolists of the land.

THE DUTY OF AMERICAN CITIZENS.

These are the days when it behooves every man to think solemnly and soberly of his duty to state and republic. It is a fearful responsibility to be at one and the same time a sovereign and a subject. The man who esteems this privilege and duty lightly is not a loyal and patriotic citizen or a safe ruler. To be selfish and indifferent, to regard it of small import how he shall vote or that it doesn't matter if he votes not all, is to be criminally negligent or ignorant. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" as surely to-day as when the immortal words were uttered, and the intelligent ballot, the ballot for the rights of the people and for good government is the safeguard of our country. It is not to vote a ticket because it has a certain brand on it, or because it is the one your father or your great uncle voted, but because you believe it to stand for the principles of democracy (in its broad full sense) upon which this free government was founded. The corner stone of this inater-day republic is "equal rights for all and special privileges for none."

Human nature is proverbially selfish, grasping, domineering, tyranical. The story of republics which have lived, flourished, decayed and died before our time, is the story of human ambition, greed, cruelty and usurpation. This is the chief menacing danger to any government and more than all, to the government which is what it is by the free and expressed consent of the governed. This, then, being the greatest danger is the gateway where the keenest and most watchful vigil must be kept.

As a country waxes rich men whose ambition is greater than their patriotism grow bold and reckless. It is self-aggrandizement first and all the time. And in the same rato the oppressed and burden-bearing grow meek, patient, hopeless and submissive; this is the natural course of events as the histories of nations prove. In a country like ours, where feedom is the birthright of every citizen and the revelation of their gradual blindness comes upon them too late, there is cause for apprehension, reason for investigation, and special demand at this hour that the voter should give his own conscientious thought to the duty he owes to his country.

In 1860, sixty-one per cent. of heads of families owned their homes; in 1890 the number is less than thirty per cent. Scientific students have deduced from history the fact that when the number of home owners reaches the minimum, which is fourteen per cent., the country is ripe for rebellion.

Thirty years ago we had few millionaires and no tramps. To-day 25,000 men own and control over fifty-eight per cent. of the estimated wealth of the country—$35,000,000,000 of the $63,000,000,000, and the by-ways and hedges swarm with tramps. What does this signify? Simply and undeniably that the legislation of the last quarter of a century has been for the making of millionaires and of paupers. There is no dodging the conclusion. This legislation has been solely directed by the republican party. And this same McKinley law which is on trial before the people of Ohio and of the United States to-day is the cap sheaf of the iniquity. It is one more twist of the thumb screw.

This is the time of all times, just before an important election, to think of these things. Brush away the glamour of campaign display; heed not the special pleas of the men who say you are taxed only for your own protection; look at conditions as they exist all around you; consider the unequal chances which the legislation of thirty years has made the position of the masses while the classes are favored, and then by the blessings of an absolutely free ballot, made free and secret by the democratic logislature of Ohio, go to the polls next Tuesday and vote as a freeman, for yourself, your family and your country.

Campbell Complimented.

Gov. Campbell has very properly refused to allow McKinley and Sherman to divert him from the tariff question, but he has not sought to evade the silver issue. In one speech last week he devoted a half hour to silver, and asked the republican leaders more searching questions than they will find it convenient to answer in this campaign.—New York World.

Not Even in Timbuctoo.

In his recent speech in Ohio Secretary of the Treasury Foster made the naked assertion that the foreigner pays all tariff taxes. Is there another finance minister in the world, the one in Borneo, or in Siam, or in Terra del Fuego, or in Ujiji, who would have the effrontery to make such a statement.—Chicago Herald.

The Women's Deadly Dagger.

These vast crowds of feminine shoppers this month are a sure index of a democratic victory next month. Every time a man's wife goes shopping, if she comes home and talks about her purchases, and of course she will, she sticks a deadly dagger into McKinleyism.—Boston Globe.

This Is Equitable.

One way to settle the Sunday opening question at the Chicago exposition would be to submit it to the nations represented at the show. These representatives will not only be guests but co-partners, and are entitled to some voice in the management.—Washington Star.

Neidringhaus' Backer.

Mr. Neidringhaus says that even if he were indicted for importing foreign labor under contract "it would make no difference anyway." And he is right. With the administration on his side, the law and the grand jury are a long way from amounting to a majority.—St. Louis Republic.

Fun All Around.

Ex-Speaker Reed tells them in Washington that he had lots of fun on the stump in Massachusetts. It is scarcely necessary to say that he didn't monopolize the fun. His audiences had some, too.—Boston Herald.

Altogether Unnecessary.

It will for the most part continue to be unnecessary for "Beautiful Snow" poets addressing editors this year to add the postscript to their poems: "Burn this after reading it."—Philadelphia Times.

McKinley's Benefactions.

Mr. McKinley has kept out three bushels of Canadian seed wheat where three bushels of Canadian seed wheat came in before. This beats the blades-of-grass scheme.—Courier-Journal.

ANOTHER PHILADELPHIA THIEF.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—City Treasurer Wright yesterday discovered that J. Frederick Volk, formerly a clerk in the office, had systematically robbed the state by false entries and alterations. He promptly caused Volk's arrest. Volk had a hearing subsequently at which he was released on $1,500 bail.

TREATY OF COMMERCE.

Berlin, Oct. 28.—The German government hopes to be able to announce, at the opening of the reichstag, the completion of a new treaty of commerce between Germany and Belgium, which is now in course of negotiation between the German foreign office and the Belgium minister in Berlin.

BILL M'KINLEY'S BILL,

Or How Another Mule and I Saved the Country.

A Mortgage is a Title of Nobility, Says William of Canton.

Unlimited Boodle, Brass Bands and Pyrotecnic Displays Draw Out an Immense Crowd—Things William Said and Truths He Didn't Tell.

Numerically the demonstration in honor of Major McKinley in Toledo last evening was a success.

The same amount of advertising, brass bands, free railroad passes, pyrotechnic displays and boodle generally could have called out as large a crowd had William of Canton been in Hong Kong.

The gathering was no greater, no more intelligent or orderly, than that seen on the streets of Toledo on any circus day.

It did not require the unusual tumult to bring the Campbell assemblage together. The nature of the crowd was seen from the disorder and ugly temper shown by many of the audience at Memorial hall.

The two impromptu addresses delivered en route to the hall were simply some of Tucker's bluffs and altogther unnecessary. Both at the Blade building and in front of Memorial hall the cheers for McKinley were mingled with cheers for Campbell.

The attempt of some parties in the Memorial hall audience to place the blame for the unseemly conduct in the rear of the hall on democrats was in keeping with the falsehoods told regarding the Air Line Junction fiasco. When Major McKinley began speaking he was interrupted by disturbances and clamors in the rear of the hall. Major McKinley stopped speaking, and Chairman Voit appealed in vain for quiet.

Gov. Ashley, who had spoken briefly prior to the arrival of Major McKinley, appealed in the name of Toledo, for the honor and good name of the city, for peace. The disturbance, he said, was a disgrace to the people of Toledo and an affront to Major McKinley.

At this point some fool in the audience shouted:

"It is the work of democrats."

The cry was taken up, and it looked as if the lie was to be reiterated by those on the platform, when Postmaster James M. Brown, to his credit be it said, promptly came to the aid of his libeled democratic friends and fellow-townsmen.

"They are not democrats," he said indignantly. "That is all bosh and nonsense."

"Why not send for the police?" came from an excited voice in the audience.

"A mortgage is a title of nobility."

"We have sent for the police," responded the chairman, "and I would suggest that all talking be done from the platform."

"He best preserves order who observes it," said Mr. McKinley.

The tumult finally subsided sufficiently to allow the speaker to be heard.

The attempt to place the blame on democratic shoulders was a failure. The nature of a crowd that can be called together by brass bands and fireworks was seen in the assemblage at Memorial hall, and the natural result was a scene of rowdyism and disorder.

Gov. Ashley during the course of his address referred several times to his recent trip to Europe, and how he recommended Blaine to the good graces of the potentates, and other things across the deep.

He never maligned public men, he said. Cleveland was a great man, and the next moment the ex-statesman and political acrobat turned round and berated the southern statesmen who dare to even exist. He spoke of "our party" and "our principles" just as if he had remained long enough in any party and advocated any schedule of principle for a time sufficient to know where he stood.

McKinley repeated his stereotyped address on the silver question. The correspondents who accompany him carry the speech in print, and one of them exhibited it to a Bee at the reporters' table last evening.

Campbell since the opening of the campaign has not repeated a speech. It is always new, fresh and vigorous.

McKinley made many remarkable statements last night, but perhaps the most remarkable was that made relative to mortgages.

Foraker in his Memorial hall address stated that strikes were blessings in disguise. McKinley goes the ex-governor one better. He says mortgages are titles of nobility.

A mortgage, he said, is the sign of prosperity; it is the emblem and badge of nobility.

This was said in justification of Campbell's claim, that a high tariff has practically bankrupted the farmers of the country.

McKinley says a mortgage on a man's house is a sign of prosperity. He says that the farmers are more prosperous today than ever before in the history of the country. He did not tell his audience that in 1860, when the republican party went into power, that the masses of the people owned 70 per cent of the country's wealth, and that to-day, after 30 years of a high protective tariff, 25,000 men control $35,000,000,000 of the $63,000,000,000 of the wealth of the country. In brief, that 25,000 men own 58 per cent and 65,000,000 the balance.

The major made another remarkable statement.

He acknowledged that the tariff is a tax.

Here are his words and that is just what they mean, interpret them as one may:

"We pay the sugar raisers of America $10,000,000 in bounties this year," he said. "Last year we paid $55,000,000 of duty on sugar. Thus we save to the American people in this one item alone $45,000,000 a year."

If the foreign producer pays the tariff duty, as McKinley claims, how in the name of common sense can the bill have saved to the American people a single cent?

Consistency, thou art a jewel not found in heart or head of the political demagogue.

If it is true—and it is true—that sugar has been reduced in price by taking off the tariff, why not reduce the price on tin, wool, etc., by taking off the tariff?

"We saved the country $45,000,000 taxes," by adopting Democratic ideas.

The major talked tin briefly, but he had never a word to say about wool. He says tin factories are springing up all over the country like mushrooms.

No, the major didn't say anything about wool. He didn't tell his audience that 30 years ago, when the republicans went into power, there were 7,800,000 head of sheep in Ohio and that now there are 3,500,000. He didn't say that since the McKinley bill went into effect, notwithstanding the increased tariff on wool, the price of wool has gone down 4 and 6 cents a pound.

The major incidentally mentioned the name of James G. Blaine and the audience fairly went wild. He didn't tell his audience what Blaine said of the McKinley bill.

This is what the secretary said:

"There is not a section or line in the entire McKinley bill that will open a market for another bushel of wheat or another pound of pork. If I were in the senate I would stamp it under my feet and spit upon it."

The most remarkable of the many remarkable statements made by McKinley last night was this:

"There is not a man or woman in Lucas county who knows from personal realization that there is a protective tariff in existence."

And again:

"The people will not submit to direct taxation. After the war the people protested so emphatically that the direct taxation laws were repealed."

What does this mean?

It means simply that if a highway robber can steal your pocketbook without being detected it is all right, and you lose nothing, but if he approaches you direct and takes your pocketbook by force you are liable to shoot him full of holes.

Ashley: "When I was in Europe, I talked with potentates."

This is the logic of the argument. How absurd. How idiotically nonsensical. And yet there are workingmen who will vote for a high protective tariff.

By the way, they have discovered the man who got that dollar on account of the McKinley bill.

His name is Voit, Reynold Voit. He was chairman of last night's meeting, and is one of the five great labor leaders who proposes voting the organized labor of Toledo in a solid phalanx for the republican ticket next Tuesday.

When Reynold said there are thousands of workingmen in Ohio who have received the dollar, McKinley turned and looked at the speaker in amazement.

If Reynold knows what is a soft snap he will throw up the job of making glass and hire out with some traveling museum. There is a New York man after him already.

The man who made the great discovery is a bigger man than Columbus, who discovered America.

The museum business would be even a softer snap than that of sidewalk inspector, which, it is said, Mayor Emmick has promised to give Reynold after election.

For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain the heathen Chinee ain't in it any more.

Well, it was worth getting up there and making a blow.

Two dollars a day and a promise of a fat office is not to be sneezed at.

We are in it, we are, us fellows who distribute the vote of organized labor of Toledo as we desire.

PLACED AT EGAN'S DOOR.

He Used His Official Position in Chili

To Aid the Cause of the Dictator, Balmaceda.

The United States Steamer Baltimore Acted as a Spy and Thus Caused the Hatred of Her to Spring Up.

Washington, Oct. 28.—(Special)—Senor Montt, the Chilian envoy here, who has been regularly appointed, but whose credentials have not yet arrived, called on Secretary Blaine yesterday and had a long talk concerning the murderous assault upon American sailors in Valparaiso.

Senor Montt explained the details of the affair which had come to him in his official capacity and he charged that Minister Egan is really responsible for all the trouble existing between Chili and the United States.

He said that during the revolution, when the congressionalists endeavored to make a secret advance on Valparaiso, the United States steamer Baltimore actually played the part of spy and reported the matter to Minister Egan, who immediately laid all the facts before Balmaceda.

The victorious party claims that their plans were divulged to the enemy through Egan's interference, and that at the battle which ensued they suffered a loss of at least 1,000 soldiers, as a direct result of this espionage.

As it is understood the Baltimore was active as an agent of Balmaceda and Egan, the populace is bitter toward that vessel, and that accounts for the attack upon its crew.

DAMRONG IN THE SWIM.

He is Seeing the Sights in Paris.

He Scorns the Affairs of State and Takes Up with Actresses of Shady Repulation.

Paris, Oct. 28.—Prince Damrong of Siam has been the lion of society here since coming from London a few days ago. The prince, who converses fluently both in French and English and spends money lavishly, is being made much of by the officials who, in view of French designs on Siamese independence, wish to give the scion of Siamese royalty a lively impression of the power of France.

The prince, however, prefers other pleasure to forts and parades, and is nightly seen at places of amusement where he falls in love with a new performer at every visit. As he is generous with presents to the objects of his fickle adoration, his attentions are seldom spurned, and already several actresses of shady reputation are wearing valuable diamonds, the gifts of Prince Damrong.

Her East African Schemes Are Failing.

The British Are Winning Back the Trade—Zanzibar the Key to the Situation.

Berlin, Oct. 28.—Great disgust exists with the news from German East Africa, going to show that the attempt of Germany to colonize that section is an almost certain failure, and that the British are winning back the trade that was at first diverted from Zanzibar.

The information coming from traders and emigrants is equally doleful, and it is believed that much difficulty will be found in inducing the reichstag to vote any more money for the development of the colony.

Meantime, Zanzibar has been considerably improved as a harbor, and the new British control promises to effect still greater improvements. There is no concealment that Germans consider that England has stolen a march in East Africa.

A LINE FENCE

Causing Considerable Trouble and Makes a Case in Police Court.

A case is pending in police court against Mr. Frank Osborne for malicious destruction of property that is of considerable importance, not only because of the parties involved, but it is likely to settle a long-standing dispute as to a boundary line. Osborne is charged with tearing down a line fence, in the rear of a lot out Monroe street, which Mr. S. Weeman claims as belonging to his family. Mr. Osborne also claims the land and the boundary line is unsettled. The case was commenced yesterday morning and the state presented its side of the case. The old original patents of the land are being looked up to-day and the case will be continued this afternoon.

THE PLAIN TRUTH

Bluntly Spoken by a Resident of Auburndale.

Said a prominent business man of Auburndale to a Bee yesterday: "They talk of annexing Auburndale to Toledo. I approve of the measure as long as they confine the lines to improve property. But when they pull these farmers into the city and tax them for something they will never receive I am opposed to it first and last. Look at Lucas county farmers. They are taxed now, until they can't call their soul their own, and yet they want to take the rest of the county into the city to help keep up the extravagance of republican city and county officials."

ABSOLUTELY PURE

TH E PEOPLE'S BALLOT,

Some Interesting Facts Regarding It.

When and Where It Was First Tried in the United States—Where It Is First Used This Year.

It will be a surprise to many to learn that all but eighteen of the forty-four states in the union will in November vote some form or other of the Australian ballot. The eighteen states are Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas and Virginia.

The next legislature of Kentucky will, under the new constitution adopted last August, enact such a law, and Iowa, having barely defeated such laws early in 1891, is likely to pass the ballot-reform laws within the coming year. Thus only fifteen states have made no move to enact the reform, Maine having passed a law to take effect next year.

The Australian ballot was first tried in Connecticut and Montana, then a territory, in the October elections of 1889. At the November elections of the same year Rhode Island and Massachusetts joined them, making four states having the new system for that year. Montana had the genuine "blanket" ballot, with the names of all the candidates on one piece of paper. Connecticut did not come up to the standard with its provision for official envelopes which may not be marked for identification in any way. The voter can obtain at the booth "ballots of any political party he may desire," but they must be printed on official paper and the envelopes must be indorsed by the officials.

The full Australian ballot was first adopted by Massachusetts. As originally enacted the names of candidates were placed upon the blanket ballot and arranged under the designation of the office in alphabetical order, according to the surnames. There were left at the end of the list of candidates for each different office as many blank spaces as there were persons to be elected to such office, in which the voter could insert the names of any person not printed on the ballot for whom he desired to vote.

The ballots were so printed as to give to each voter a clear opportunity to designate by a cross, in a sufficient margin at the right of the name of each candidate, his choice of candidates and his answer to the questions submitted; and on the ballot might be printed such words as would aid the voter to do this, as, "Vote for one," "Vote for three," "Yes," "No," and the like. No voter was allowed to keep a booth more than ten minutes, nor more than five minutes in case the other booths were in use. Voters who were not able to read and write were allowed assistance. The law did not prevent party workers from following the voters to and from the polling-place and pressing them with solicitations; but this defect has been remedied by a recent amendment. Rhode Island has a shorter law than that of Massachusetts, and it is not as good.

In 1890 nine additional states, Indiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Tennessee, Washington and Wisconsin, adopted the new system of voting. Indiana added to the name of the political party on the blanket ballot a party device. Such device may be the figure of a star, an eagle, a plow, or some such appropriate symbol, but the coat of arms or seal of the state or of the United States, the national flag, or any other emblem common to the people at large shall not be used as such device. The names of the candidates on the party tickets to be voted are marked with a cross as in Massachusetts. The other states requiring the cross were Minnesota, Tennessee, Washington and Wisconsin. In Missouri the voter must strike out all of the names for which he does not wish to vote.

New York is the only state thus far that allows the use of a paster ballot so that a voter with this in his pocket can fasten it anywhere on the official ballot and it will be counted. Recent amendments make independent voting more difficult than it was under the law of 1890. New Jersey's law allowed a sort of paster ballot to be printed by each party at the public expense.

Thirteen more states will try the new ballot Nov. 3 next. They are: Arkansas, California, Delaware, Illinois, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Vermont, West Virginia and Wyoming. The latter state adopted the system while it was yet a territory; but as it has recently been admitted into the union it will hold its first election under this system as a state in November. Arkansas, like Missouri, erases all the names not voted for. All of the other states named above require the voter to make a cross opposite the names or the party groups for which he wishes to vote. Michigan and Ohio allow party devices. The voters of West Virginia may vote by secret or open ballot as they chose.

INCIDENTS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

A Priest's Part in the Cork Demonstration.

Cork, Oct. 28.—An interesting incident in yesterday's fracas was that of a Parnellite, who, while attacking the McCarthyites, was knocked down and considerably hurt by a stalwart priest, who immediately proceeded to administer the consolations of religion to the prostrate and injured man at his request, the latter supposing himself to be dying. He proved to be not seriously injured.

Berlin, Oct. 28.—The kaiser's reception of King Charles, of Roumania, has been more than friendly. They are the only two reigning sovereigns of the house of Hohenzollern, King Charles belonging to a minor branch which adhered to the Roman Catholic faith. It is understood that the Roumanian king has already received assurances of the hearty support of his imperial kinsman should Russia cross the Pruth into Roumania.

HEAVY STORMS.

St. Pierre, Mipuelon, Oct. 28.—The past week has been one of continuous gales and storms of the severest kind. Many reports of disaster to shipping have been received apd it is believed there has been some loss of life in the many wrecks.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Cincinnati, Oct. 28.—Last night the Dodsworth distilling company of Cumminsville lost their large buildings and valuable machinery by fire. The loss will reach $75,000. It was about the only distillery of any note in the United States that is not identified with the whisky trust. The cause of the fire is unknown. Insurance about $35,000.

COMEDY WON.

London, Oct. 28.—This was the second day of the Newmarket-Houghton October meeting. The event of the day, the race for the Cambridgeshire stakes, was won by Comedy, with Breach second, and Derelict third.

REGISTRATION AT FINDLAY.

Findlay, Oct. 28.—The registration in this city foots up 4,597 voters, an increase of 574 over that of last spring, in which increase both parties share about equally.

UNDER THE WHEEL.

The wheel of faith hath a measureless round—
A measureless round, and it turneth slow,
And few on the topmost curve are found
Who care for the lives crushed out below.
But silent and sure its circuit keeps;
And still the shadows beneath it steal;
For, sooner or later, all it sweeps
Under the wheel.

There are some in the mire of want who fell
As the great wheel slackened their straining hold,
Yet kept their souls, as the legends tell,
The spotless martyrs kept theirs of old.
And some in the furnace of greed are lost;
(Nor ever the angel beside them feel)
And outer the darkness where some are tossed
Under the wheel.

The laughter is silenced on childhood's lips,
And hollowed the cheeks of beauty's bloom;
Still on, remorseless, the great orb slips—
A juggernaut car of implacable doom!
Sweet age is robbed of its saintly peace;
(Oh, saddest woe that the heart can feel!)
To pain and struggle is no surcease,
Under the wheel.

It has warped high purpose of noble youth
To a base endeavor for place and gold;
It has slain the week who sought for truth
With a craven terror that none hath told.
Hope's heart grew faint, and faith's eye grew dim,
And love felt the chill of death congeal;
Hath God forgotten? they cried to him—
Under the wheel.

O terrible wheel! must thou still go round,
While suns and stars their orbits keep?
Hast thou place, like theirs, in the fathomless bound
Of nature's mystery dread and deep?
Nay! man's injustice, not God's decree,
Marked thy pathway; the sides reveal
A day that cometh, when none shall be
Under the wheel.

The noted Epworth Bible excited great interest among the delegates to the Methodist council in Washington. There is a great fad at present in New York for the collecting of rare and valued prints and early engravings, and not only is it considered good form to have a number of "choice specimens, but it is of absolute importance to know something about them. There is but one print-shop in New York which makes a specialty of collecting rare works of the classic English school, and this, known as the firm of Simpson Bros., is attracting both art collectors and those persons of good taste who are furnishing their homes with choice bits of Chippendale and Sheraton. Among the prints which are in great demand, and which, being highly decorative in character, accord best with rooms arranged in the antique English fashion, are those taken from the works of George Moreland and Angelica Kauffmann, and engraved by Bartolozzi, Ryland and others. It is only of late years that Americans have cared to possess prints of Bartolozzi and his school, although the English collectors have long sought for choice examples.

TO THE BUSINESS MEN.

Grover Cleveland Addresses the New Yorkers.

Why the Merchant Should be Interested in Politics.

Governor Hill and the Ex-President from the Same Platform—Resolutions Denouncing the Loss of the World's Fair.

New York, Oct. 28.—When Grover Cleveland was a presidential candidate in 1884, leading men of his party on the produce exchange organized a business men's association which was very active.

The organization has been maintained and last winter incorporated as the New York Democratic club, with a club house on Fifth avenue. Under the auspices of this club a campaign meeting was held last night at Madison Square Garden.

Gov. Hill was present as a speaker and ex-President Cleveland presided. Each was roundly cheered as he appeared upon the stage. The ex-president and the governor greeted each other cordially and a minute later J. Edwards Simmons was introduced as the chairman of the meeting.

A series of resolutions of bitter tenor regarding the loss of the world's fair to New York and other state topics were passed, and Banker J. Edward Simmons then called the meeting to order and presented Mr. Cleveland as chairman. After expressing pleasure upon being present with business men the ex-president said:

"It must be confessed that both here and in other parts of the country those engaged in business pursuits have kept too much aloof from public affairs and have too generally acted upon the theory that neither their duty as citizens nor their personal interests required of them any habitual participation in political movements.

"This indifference and inactivity have resulted in a loss to our public service. I am firmly of the belief that if a few business men could be substituted for professional men in official places the people would positively gain by the exchange.

"And it is strange to me that our business men have not been quicker to see that their neglect of political duty is a constant danger to their personal and special interests.

"They may labor and plan in their counting houses or in their exchanges, but in the meantime laws may be passed by those ignorant of their business bearings, which in their operation will counteract all their labor and defeat all this planning. The city of New York, as the center of all that makes our Empire State, and this the great heart from which lifegiving currents flow to all parts of the country, cannot be indifferent to the questions, both state and national, which have relation to the state campaign now nearly closed.

"Much has been said about the topics which should be discussed in the prosecution of this campaign. It has been contended that the canvass should be confined to state issues, and it has been claimed that national issues should be most prominently considered.

"I conceive the truth to be that both are proper subjects of discussion at this time; and, in the presence of this assemblage, called together to consider the business features of the contest, I am impressed with the fact that the best test to employ by way of discovering the legitimacy of any topic in the pending campaign is to inquire whether it is connected with the good of the country and with the business of the city and state, and whether it will be at all influenced by the results of the canvass.

"Can any one doubt that the political verdict which the people of New York will give in November will affect her position in the general national engagement which will take place one year hence? In this view the proper adjustment of the tariff, which concerns materially not only our people but the commerce and the business of our city, should be discussed.

"This, and the question of sound currency cannot be separated from the business interests of our state; and they should be put before our people now for the purpose of inviting their thought and settling their opinions.

"Applying the same test, it is entirely plain that an economical administration of state affairs and the numerous other subjects having reference to a just, honest and beneficent state government are in a business sense important and legitimate.

"On all these questions the democracy is right, and we are willing and anxious to discuss them in any place and at any time. But our opponents, apparently seeking to avoid the discussion of subjects legitimate to the canvass and affecting the business of our city and state, and exhibiting such weakness and fear as certainly ought not to escape notice, are shrieking throughout the state the demerits and dangerous proclivities of a certain political organization whose members support the principles and candidates of the democratic party.

"It would be quite easy to show that even if all they allege against this organization were true, the perils our opponents present to the people are baseless and absurd. But it seems to me the argument of such a question belittles an important situation. Every man knows, or ought to satisfy himself whether the principles or policy presented to the people by the democratic party are such as he approves.

"If they are, certainly his duty as a citizen obliges him to indorse them. Every man ought to satisfy himself whether the candidates of the democratic party are men of such character and ability that he is willing to trust him in the administration of his state government. If he believes they are he should not withhold his support from them upon any frivolous and irrelevant pretext.

"The exercise of the right of suffrage is a serious business; and a man's voting ought to express his opinion on the questions at issue. This it utterly fails to do if the voter listens to the ravings of our opponents and allows his vote merely to record the extent to which he has yielded to the misleading and cunningly devised appeals to his prejudices, made in behalf of a desperate and discredited minority. Such a vote does not influence in the least the real settlement of any of the weighty matters of policy and principles upon which the people are called upon to pronounce judgment.

"If enough such votes should be given to cause a false verdict in the state, those who should contribute to that result and thus become disloyal to their beliefs, would find everything but satisfaction in their self-reproach, and in their sense of degredation which would follow the unconcealed contempt of those partisans who had duped them for the purpose of thus gaining a party advantage not otherwise possible."

Mr. Cleveland closed with refrenece to the purity of Mr. Flower's business career, and expressed approval of the other candidates.

"FOR" LINDENBERGER.

An Old Toledo Boy Showing Californians How to Do Business.

Lindenberger Bros. have the finest fruit orchard in the valley—that is, the most extensive and the most valuable. They cultivate 340 acres of land, mostly foot hill, but level, rich and good soil. Of this 60 acres are in orchard and vineyard, 51 being in trees and 9 in vines. Of this 34 acres are in olives, containing 1,700 trees ranging in age from one to three years, many of them blossomed this spring and have some fruit on them now.

Altogether this large body of thrifty young olive trees forms the most encouraging spectacle to be seen in the valley, as it shows, perhaps, the most clearly, the possible future of our foothill land. The firm has 90 thrifty orange trees in good heart and doing well, besides about fifteen acres in deciduous trees of various kinds. Fully half the trees on this fine place will be in bearing next season. The firm is composed of F. T. Lindenberger, secretary of our irrigation district and senior partner in the real estate firm of Lindenberger Bros. and Case, and his brother, H. H. Lindenberger, of Detroit, who is also a member of the Winchester real estate firm. The above paragraph is taken from a recent issue of the Ploughshare and Pruning Hook, published at Winchester, San Diego, California.

Mr. F. T. Lindenberger, referred to in the clipping, is an old Toledo boy, and will be remembered by Toledoans generally, especially by business men. He was for some time connected with the Bee as advertising solicitor. About eight years since he opened a railroad ticket office in this city, but shortly after removed to Detroit, where the firm of Lindenberger Bros. was formed, which has done a large and profitable business as ticket brokers. Three years ago the firm purchased the property referred to above, and Mr. F. T. Lindenberger went to California, where he now resides, to give his entire attention to the improvement and cultivation of their fruit orchard.

"For," as he was familiarly known here, is a man of unusual push and energy, and his numerous friends in the "Future Great" will rejoice to hear of his well-deserved success.

ROOM FOR MORE CADETS.

West Point Not Running Full Turn.

Col. Wilson Thinks He Could Turn Out a Few More Soldiers Without Extra Expense.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Colonel Wilson, superintendent of the West Point military academy, has submitted his annual report to the secretary of war. Colonel Wilson reports on September 1, 1891, there were eight professors and 55 commissioned officers stationed at the post, and a class of 287 cadets.

The class is about 17 per cent. less than the maximum authorized under the census of 1880. The new census increases the maximum to 371, and Colonel Wilson recommends that this be increased to 401, as he thinks the plant is amply sufficient to turn out a larger number of graduates each year.

In his last report Colonel Wilson suggested that the cadets should pass a physical examination before reporting to the academy, he now recommends that candidates be required to report for physical examination to the nearest medical officer of the army immediately after receiving their letters of appointment, and should they be pronounced physically disqualified for military duty their appointments can at once be revoked and they will be spared further expense and mortification; should they be pronounced qualified they should be admitted without further physical examination, provided they pass the mental tests.

THE THEATERS.

Miss Marlowe Scores Another Success—Miss Gale To-night—Change of Bill at the People's.

In the performance of Ingomar last evening Miss Julia Marlowe added much to the favor she is winning in Toledo. Ingomar is a much cleaner and purer play than Cymbeline and therefore gave better satisfaction to the large and refined audience present. The part of Parthenia is very similar to that Imogen and gave Miss Marlowe a chance to exhibit to the fullest her wonderful ability. Ingomar has not the advantage of much stage setting or change of costume, but in the hands of Miss Marlowe and her strong company it was given a rendition that did not need any mechanical accessories. Mr. Charles B. Hanford, as Ingomar, the barbarian, was something of a surprise and proved exceedingly strong in this difficult part, making an able support for Miss Marlowe. The company throughout was strong and seemed selected for the piece.

Miss Gale To-night.

Miss Minna Gale, who made many friends in the city while she was leading lady with Booth and Barrett, will appear here to-night for the first time as a star and with a company of her own at Wheeler opera house. Miss Gale is supported by Mr. Creston Clarke and an able company, many of whom were members of the Booth-Barrett organization and not unknown here. To-night they will play Shakespeare's masterly comedy, "As You Like It," with Miss Gale as Rosalind. Miss Gale is both handsome and graceful and her full ability is brought out in this piece, which cannot fail to please.

At the People's.

Miss Ullie Akerstrom is fairly dancing her way into the hearts of the patrons of the People's theater, and her houses are increasing nightly. Her bright, charming way always takes and the good company with which she is surrounded support her ably. There will be a change of bill to-night and to-morrow, when Renah, the Gypsy's Daughter, will be put on. Friday and Saturday they will play Annette, the Dancing Girl.

The Seeboeck Recital.

A great treat is in store for the music loving public. The Seeboeck recital Friday evening at the Whitney & Currier hall gives the public a chance to hear one of the most satisfactory players ever heard in Toledo. All who have heard Mr. Seeboeck will wish to hear him again and those who have not heard him should not fail to listen to this artist. Seats now on sale at Whitney's music store.

Webster Place!

The owners of this beautiful addition are anxious to convert a portion of their property into money, with which to make further improvements. We are ordered to sell a limited number of these lots at once. We realize that to do this we must name prices that are so low that customers will buy these lots in preference to anything else offered. We are prepared to do this and will sell a few of these lots at prices that will surprise the closest buyers, and on terms to suit you. Consider the improvements that have just been completed and are now being made. Stone sidewalks, sewerage, city water, Cherry street paved, Fulton street dedicated and graded, beautiful new homes. You will not have another opportunity to buy as choice property at so low a price, or so favorable terms as we are prepared to offer.

PLIGHTED IN DARKNESS.

He knew that she wore violets that night, and when he found a little white-robed figure in the corner of the vine-clad piazza, and the faint odor of violets greeted him, how could he know in the darkness that they were white instead of purple, and were worn by Helen Graham instead of by Marian Edwards.

Still he might have made himself a little more sure of the lady's identity before plunging headlong into a declaration of love.

But she—Marian—had been so sweetly gracious to him all through that last dance that Willis Grey could no longer keep back the words welling up from his surcharged heart when he believed himself at last alone with his divinity.

And Helen, when she heard the torrent of half whispered words poured into her willing ear, could she believe he was other than George Worth? Who else among all her would-be adorers had ever received sufficient encouragement to warrant such an attack?

And so, though somewhat astonished at his precipitancy, yet secretly pleased by his audacity, she gracefully capitulated, and in token of surrender had just granted him a shy, maidenly kiss, when voices warned them that their retreat was about to be invaded.

He hastily whispered a request for one of the tiny flowers whose perfume had guided him to his blissful fate as a tangible reminder of her sweet confession of love, and she, with lavish generosity, gathered from her corsage a handful of the fairest blossoms, and with trembling fingers fastened them in his buttonhole.

Then, as they came into the light, she timidly raised her eyes to his, and—horror of horrors!—found herself gazing into the face of not George Worth, but Willis Grey!

Her head swam, and she thought she should suffocate. Then, failing to see his like agitation; she precipitately fled to her own room, where, once securely within, she locked the door and braced herself against it, as if she feared her impetuous lover would follow her even there to claim her.

"Oh, what shall I do? What shall I do?" she cried aloud. "I thought he was George Worth, and I let him make love to me. I told him I loved him. I let him kiss me, and I—I—I kissed him. Oh, shall die of shame."

"If it were not for that I could tell him it was all a mistake; but how can I now? I cannot let him go on thinking I am engaged to him. And if I do break off with him, how can I ever face him again, knowing that he knows that I know that he knows that I, Helen Graham, voluntarily of my own free will kissed him?

"To tell him I thought he was some one else would not help the matter one bit, for he would be sure to guess who, and then he would know that I was ready to kiss George Worth just as soon as ever he asked me."

"What shall I do! What shall I do!"

And in the utter abandonment of woe she threw herself upon the bed, regardless alike of the dainty gown and the blossoms that had been the innocent cause of her strange predicament. As if in gentle protest of such treatment the dying flowers sent forth their fragrance again.

"Those odious violets," she thought; "their perfume makes me faint." With impulsive haste she was about to throw them from the open windows, but the sight of their frail beauty brought tenderer thoughts of the man who had so eloquently besought the gift of but one of them as an assurance of her love.

"I'll keep one of them," she said, softly, in remembrance of his love for me; for I am sure he loves me very dearly. Poor fellow! how can I ever tell him it was all a mistake?"

The morning found her still undecided what to do, except as to the firm resolve that, as Mr. Grey was an early riser, she would defer her appearance in the dining-room until 9 o'clock at the very earliest, and would endeavor to avoid meeting him again until she could make up her mind as to what was to be done next.

In the meanwhile Willie Grey was trying, with the aid of more cigars than was at all good for him, to find a way out of the blunder he had made.

"What a confounded ass I have made of myself!" soliloquized he as he paced to and fro down by the river. "To think that a man in his sober senses should propose to one girl when he is head over heels in love with another! How on earth am I to get out of the scrape?

"It is impossible to tell her that I made love to her under the impression that she was one else. I could never do that; and the dear little girl is so fond me, too, there is no doubt of it. How charmingly coy she was! Why, she ran away like a startled fawn when she finally found courage to look me squarely in the face.

"It is decidedly refreshing to come across such a modest little Puritan in these days.

"And what lovely eyes she has, like—But, confound it! I can't afford to admire her eyes or anything else about her. Marian Edwards has every right to expect my addresses. How am I to get out of it, I should like to know?"

He paused, cigar in hand, to look up into the starlit sky, as if there he might find an answer. As he lowered his eyes the little white boutonniere caught his glance, and he bent his head to inhale the delicate perfume.

Then he recalled how pretty were the white hands that pinned it there.

"What an idiot I was to suppose that only one woman in all the crowd wore violets to-night! Ah, little flowers, you have led me into the deuce of a scrape!"

Still he did not think of throwing them away.

"I do not relish the idea of sitting opposite to those honest gray eyes of hers at breakfast table. Fortunately I know she is an early riser, so I can go down late. Then I shall ask her to go rowing with me and trust to luck for the rest.

"She is a girl of pluck and pride, and if she should once imagine that I was not sufficiently attentive for a fiance would throw me over at once, I know.

"But it is a shame to hurt the little thing. Hang it all, if it were not for Marian I do not believe I would want to get out of it at all."

The next morning Helen was not surprised to find the house apparently deserted, for early morning sports were a fad at Riverside; but she was more than astonished to find but one person in the dining-room, and that one the man above all others whom she wished to avoid.

Neither had much to say during the meal beyond an invitation from him to go for a row up the river, and, after a slight hesitation, an acceptance from her.

Nor was either of them much more talkative when they went skimming up the river, but enough earnest thinking was done during that boat ride to more than make up for this.

While she was secretly admiring the delicate consideration which she imagined was prompting him to forbear pressing his love upon her in her present unresponsive mood, he was silently lauding the modest diffidence which he imagined was preventing her from making any advances for his favor, and he soon found himself admiring the graceful pose of the little young figure, the pretty contour of mouth and chin, and the long, curling, dark lashes that shaded the downcast eyes as she sat opposite to him, holding the tiller ropes with those same slim fingers that had pinned the violets on his coat the night before.

He had the little boutonniere in his pocket-book now; he would keep it always as a souvenir of—what! Great Caesar! This was downright treason to his love for Marian!

He bent his head low over his oars, that he might not see the tempting vision before him; while she shyly raised those curling lashes to better admire—herself unobserved—the handsome head of which only the tip of a nose and the ends of a fair mustache were visible beneath the brim of his straw hat, and she concluded that it was worth while to have won the love of this strong, manly, deferential young oarsman, even if it were a love she could not accept.

"If he were only George Worth!" she thought.

He raised his head, their eyes met for a brief instant, and each read in the other's glance—or thought they did—in love's own language a message that set their hearts beating and pulses throbbing.

Still an uneasy sense of something not just right prevented them from repeating the experiment in eye-reading, and both felt relieved when the boat glided up into a sheltered little harbor.

Willis jumped out and turned to help his companion, but she, declining to trust her hand within his, hurried to follow, and in her haste made a misstep, which threw her forward into arms promptly outstretched to receive her.

Her head fell upon his shoulder, the rosy face was upturned to his; again audacious love in the brown eyes saw response in the gray—can you blame him?

Marian was forgotten, their lips met, and a faint sigh banished forever the fleeting memory of George.

And the vows that had been plighted in the darkness of night were repeated in the glad light of day.—Boston Globe.

SHARK AND DOG FISH.

Make Sure a Shark is Dead Before You Fool Round It.

There are about sixty species of sharks known to scientific observers, and this much-dreaded creature is found in every sea ploughed by the keel of a ship. Some of them, such as the dog-fish, are not more than two feet long, while others are from thirty to fifty feet. But they are nearly all ferocious, and the stories that one reads in Marryatt's novels about the many men who have been devoured by these ravenous creatures are strictly true. The shark known as the man-eater—a huge beast from twenty-five to forty feet long—will lie for days near a ship, picking up garbage that falls overboard. With one snap of his jaws he can cut the body of a man in two.

All the fishermen along our coast dread sharks, and tell stories about their ferocity, but they are not deterred from hunting them, as the fish is very valuable for the oil obtained from it. There are many ways of catching sharks. Some fishermen trap them in strong nets held by heavy grapnels and anchors; many expert hunters fire small bombs into them, which often kill the fish instantly; others pursue them with harpoons in the same way as the whale is caught. But the larger number of sharks are captured with hooks. They take almost any kind of bait, but what they prefer most is fat pork, which the fishermen put on a large hook, to which is attached a stout bank-line.

A Canadian fisherman who walked with a halt once said to me, "You wonder, perhaps, why I walk like this. Well, it comes of shark-catching. One day last summer, when we could get no codfish either with nets or hooks, we thought we had better try for dog-fish, or, rather, small sharks, for a lot of them had been hanging around us for a couple of days. All other fish were scarce, and that is the reason why the sharks kept so close to us. When anything was thrown overboard, a shark would thrust his head out of the water and seize it.

"There is a lot of oil to be got from sharks and dog-fish, and about August the liver of the dog-fish is nearly all fat. So we put out our lines, stout bank-lines they were, baiting them with fat pork, and patiently waited the result. We did not expect to catch any big sharks, but only the dog-fish, whichwe knew were around in shoals. The rest of the crew began to haul in dog-fish as fast as they could, because the brutes were hungry, and snapped at everything they could eat. I also caught two or three dog-fish, and unhooked them. The dog-fish is only a couple of feet long, and it isn't hard to pull him in, but his fins will cut you; and his skin, under the name of shagreen, is used by cabinet-makers and other woodworkers instead of sand-paper, it is so rough and hard. Again I threw out my hook and line, and this time felt a tremendous tug at it. I pulled pretty hard, but couldn't draw the fish, and one of my mates standing near me said, 'You have got hold of one of the big fellows; be easy with him now, he will be worth a hundred of these.' I had caught big sharks before, and knew how to manage, though this was an extremely savage one.

"He dove nearly plump down into the sea, and I let out my line as fast as was necessary; then he turned and shot up for the surface, and darted in one direction and another for nearly fifteen minutes, until I tired him out. Then I dragged him alongside, not pulling too hard, lest I should tear out the hook, and when I got him to the water-line there was not much life left in him. We 'bowsed' him aboard, and let him flop on the deck.

"He was thirteen feet long, and had a mouth large enough to bite off and swallow the half of a man. I was foolish enough to go up by his head and begin to take off the rope; but I had no sooner done so than he turned on his side and seized my leg in his jaws. One of my mates grabbed an axe, and running over, struck the shark five or six times upon the head with all his might. That stunned him, and his jaws opened.

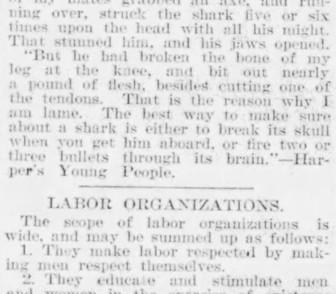
"But he had broken the bone of my leg at the knee, and bit out nearly a pound of flesh, besides cutting one of the tendons. That is the reason why I am lame. The best way to make sure about a shark is either to break its skull when you get him aboard, or fire two or three bullets through its brain."—Harper's Young People.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS.

The scope of labor organizations is wide, and may be summed up as follows:

1. They make labor respected by making men respect themselves.
2. They educate and stimulate men and women in the exercise of existence they shall lead.
3. They protect the home by protecting the mother and child from the demand of the manufacturer for the cheapest possible labor.
4. They prepare the way for further advance of social evolution, in whatever direction the wishes of men may desire and direct.
5. They increase the market for manufactured products by increasing the wages, and thus indirectly benefit all engaged in production.
6. They protect the widow and orphan from want, bury the dead and teach the graces and fraternities of mutual relief and assistance to the living.
7. They offer to the manufacturers the medium for the orderly settlement of all disputes as to wages and conditions of labor, and make arbitration and conciliation possible by substituting discipline for mob.
8. They confer a benefit by the mere fact of bringing workingmen together, softening their prejudices, getting them better acquainted with one another, teaching them to sacrifice, if need be, immediate individual interest for the good of the majority.
9. They place in the hands of workingmen a greater power, a power generally for good, rarely for ill, which may be used in the legitimate effort to obtain for the laborer the full market price for his labor and greater leisure in which to enjoy the fruits of his toil.

WEARY MOTHERS



LOOK AT THIS.

Are these not healthy and bright children? Their appearance does no misrepresent them; they are both healthy and bright. They are the son and daughter of Mr. J. P. Wiley of Dorchester, Mass., and he has an interesting story to tell in regard to them. The story is as follows:

"In 1885 my wife, accompanied by my little boy, at that time 11 months old, was visiting relatives in Evanston, Penna. The little fellow was suffering untold agony cutting his teeth. My wife was told to try Dr. Hand's Teething Lotion. The effect was magical. It did not supply the child, as most remedies of this character do, it simply soothed the pain of the inflamed and irritating gums. I might write on, and I can't, praising this remedy, and can not express my feelings or do it justice, it's simply marvellous. After her return to Boston she visited another bottle, but I found that it was unknown in this city. I corresponded with Dr. Hand, and received in reply a sample of each of his remedies. I used them on both my children, recommended them to all my friends, and have got to find the person who, after using the remedies, especially Teething Lotion and Cough Cure, that could not praise them. People wonder, and have said to me, 'Is there really something in that Teething Lotion that makes it effective?' In reply to this I will say I have two children, a boy and girl, who have been treated with Teething Lotion since time of beginning to end of teething, and I challenge any person to furnish them with any cleaner brains. I cheerfully recommend them to parents who love their children."

A little book, illustrated, full of sense and suggestion, of service to you, will be sent to any one in the land. VERY.

A GOOD WORD FOR RUSSIA.

What a British Officer Thinks of the Closing of the Dardanelles.

It cannot be denied that Russia is now (as England once was in a lesser degree) the most distinctly and actively civilizing power in the world. Fortunatel yfor the human race, British prejudice, which would fain have impeded her establishment of law and order in the Caucasus, has proved powerless to prevent the complete fulfillment of her beneficent mission in Central Asia, where she has rapidly converted into decent samples of humanity the savage and blood-thirsty tribes that English folly desired to maintain as a sort of bramble-wilderness barrier or "Tom Tiddler's ground" between two civilized nations.

Backed by railroads and ample lines of supply and of transport, Russia now stands armed on the threshold of India, which nothing but British imbecility in obstinately denying her an outlet in any direction will ever tempt her to cross; and yet, while she already occupies and can never be ousted from this commanding point of vantage, it is actually still thought worth while to maintain a chronic situation of dangerous turmoil in the east of Europe, lest, forsooth, a few Russian ships emerging from the Dardanelles, and having to pass a dozen points in the Archipelago where the English and Italian navies could bar their further progress with the greatest ease, should threaten India (already at Russia's feet as much as it can ever be) by running the gauntlet of the canal through (British) Egypt, thence through the Red Sea and past its key, (British) Aden! Or is it, perchance, feared that, slipping past British Gibraltar, they should reach India (query: under sail? for no coal would be available) by way of the Cape of Good Hope, or maybe Cape Horn?

For a parallel to the situation we must imagine (with some difficulty) Canada an independent nation, having got through the government corruption epoch with the loss only of Nova Scotia, and then picture to ourselves Newfoundland coerced by the United States, or perhaps by Chili, into blockading the St. Lawrence.

How long would it be tolerated for Canadian government ships returning from service in the West Indies or in Europe to be debarred from approaching Ottawa, or whatever city may eventually become their capital, any nearer than Vancouver, and having to round the Horn to do that? How long would Austria or Italy submit to be shut into the Mediterranean by a prohibitive agreement between England at Gibraltar and Spain at opposite and far more impregnable Ceuta?

Keeping the Dardanelles closed is assuredly no protection to Constantinople against Russia, which can go there when she pleases without passing them, encountering no resistance except from the comparatively weak forts on the upper Bosporus, easily turned by a landing on the Black Sea coast.

It is curious to observe the difference in the armament and efficiency of these two positions of about equal natural strength; the weaker defence by far being opposed to Russia, and the stronger to western Europe. It should also be noted that it is only in time of peace, when no danger exists, that the closing of the Dardanelles in conformity with treaties is enforced. In time of war England has always been the first to disregard and violate the regulations on this point dictated by herself.—Harper's Weekly.

THE KAISER ON BALLET GIRLS.

Emperor William appears to have brought down a regular hornets' nest about his ears at Berlin by comparing the ladies of the ballet at the Munich opera with those of the opera at his own capital, much to the disadvantage of the latter. During the state performance of Mascagni's Cavalleria Rusticana at Munich he took the opportunity of personally complimenting not only the conduct of the orchestra but also the ballerinas. When the dansenses, with somewhat unusual modesty, responded to his praise with a remark that the ballerinas at the Berlin opera were probably superior to themselves, he exclaimed at once: "Oh, no! Since Taglioni's death things have greatly changed. Your ballet girls here are dressed with much more chic than ours. At Berlin they wear starched skirts, which I cannot bear." Of course the north German comic and satirical papers have taken the matter up, and are commenting in the most free and easy manner on the young monarch's declared preference for skirts that are soft and clinging.

IT MAY BE

That you prefer to pay rent for your house than to own one of your own. It may be that you have never taken the time or trouble to figure up what you pay out in rent and how quickly it would pay for a home. Perhaps you don't know how easy it is to become the proud possessor of the "dearest spot on earth." Perhaps you think you must pay all cash when you would buy a home, and if you could not afford to do that you must grovel, and sweat, and dig to lift a burden of a mortgage. These are but suggestions. It may be that you do know it is more pleasureable, profitable and comfortable to live in your own home than in some other person's. It may be that you thought about it and come to the conclusion that you do pay out a great deal of rent, and that it does not take very long to pay for a new house at the same rate. It is quite likely that you know a mortgage is perfectly healthy, and that a house with a mortgage is better than no house at all, and that a mortgage is not a burden at all, but in fact a help. Perhaps the only thing you are not positive about is where to build a home, and it is right here we are of assistance.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,402,856 bu, compared with 586,526 bu on the same day last year.

Our Exports—Our table herein of exports an imports for September and for a year ending 30th 1891 and 1890 gives the exports in September $21,083,901 in excess of imports, and for the year $98,375,866 in excess of imports.

The United Kingdom's supply of Breadstuffs—According to the New York Produce Exchange Weekly, the supply of breadstuffs in the United Kingdom for the week ending October 17 was 405,000 bushels in excess of estimated consumption.

The Philadelphia Price Current says, that the engagements of ships for the export of oats now aggregates 2,350,000 bu—present and future.

The same authority says that the steamers out now under charter at four Atlantic ports to load wheat in November and December aggregates 1,680,000 bu.

You can tell more about a man's character by trading horses with him once than you can by hearing him talk for a year in prayer meeting.—Ram's Horn.

The stocks of grain in private elevators at Chicago are reported at 1378,000 bu. wheat, 3,000 bu. corn, 778,000 bu. oats, 100,000 bu. rye, 255,000 bu. barley.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 816,330 bu in excess of the corresponding Wednesday in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were 303,745 bu of wheat and very light in flour.

English markets as reported herein are quiet and steady for wheat on the spot, the spot, and later are reported lower for futures.

Taking into consideration the receipts of wheat, the outward movement from all seaboard points, and prices in foreign markets the whole outlook just now is bearish. We are moving wheat into the markets faster than the demand justifies. But there is always a reversed side to the question, and so there is now. American dealers are becoming solicitous because of the dry weather over the winter wheat belt. There is no doubt but rain is needed in some of the states, but a singular feature is, that the lower the price of wheat goes in the wheat pits, the dryer the weather is. There are the wets and drys now. Part of the time the drys have had it to-day, but most of of the day the wets—we expect rain in time—have had the best of it, and prices have ruled lower all the forenoon, but fluctuating.

But here comes another bear item.

Bradstreet's report of the visible supply makes wheat increased 4,841,000 bus; corn decreased 1,024,000 bus; oats increased 475,000 bus. On the Pacific coast wheat increased 666,000 bus. Aggregate increase of wheat on both coasts 5,507,000 bus. Yesterday we gave the increase in the regular visible supply and increase in ocean stock, both for last week, at 6,085 bus. Add the increase by Bradstreets and the aggregate increase in the two items for last week are 7,879,000 bus. Judging by sight there is a good deal of wheat moving.

The wheat markets have been quite unsteady. At one time the price was 1c lower east and west, but finally closed higher than yesterday on the dry weather. Liverpool wheat market closed lower.

Corn has been firm and closes higher.

In New York October and December wheat closed 1-2c up, November corn 1 1-4c up, October oats 1-4c up. In Chicago December wheat closed 3-4c up, October corn 1-2c and November 1 1-8c up, November oats 1-8c lower.

In Toledo we have had a fairly busy day. In wheat futures prices have not been so unsteady as in other markets. Opening and later prices were 5-8 to 3-4c lower, but near the close the market became firmer and recovered the loss, and a shade more.

On the call No. 2 soft wheat sold at 96 1-4c; December at 98@97 5-8c, closing at 97 3-4c; May sold at $1.04@1.03 7-8. After the call December sold at 97 5-8@98 1-2c, and closed at 98 3-8c bid, a gain of 1-8c; May sold at $1.03 3-4@1.03 1-2, and closed at $1.04 1-2, a gain of 1-4c.

Cash wheat was in sharp demand. Sales of 80,000 bu. Opening prices were 3-4c lower, but market advanced near the close and closing sales were 1-4c higher. After change there was a further gain of 1-4c. No. 2 soft sold at 95 1-2c to 96 1-2c; after change at 96 1-2c and at 96 3-4c. No. 3 soft at 92 1-2c to 93c. No. 4 soft 87c; rejected No. 1 at 83c to 85c. No. 2 at 78c, No. 2 hard at 93c, No. 3 hard at 87c.

TOM REED IS A JONAH.

McKinley Had Better Keep Him Up in Maine.

He Has Been Turning Republican Localities into Democratic Districts at an Alarming Rate.

Columbus, Oct. 28.—(Special)—The appearance of Tom Reed in the state ought to make McKinley tremble in his shoes if he has any superstition in his make-up. He will undoubtedly have big meetings because everyone will want to see the "tyrant" who ran the billion-dollar congress, but they will go to see him from the same motives that would lead them to go to see a white elephant or a red parrot fresh from a Brazilian forest.

Nevertheless he is considered a veritable "hoodoo" after his campaigning experience of last fall, when he made speeches in ten republican districts, each one of which, by a singular fatality, went democratic.

He defeated two men in Massachusetts, three in New York, and then came into McKinley's district, which was lost.

From there he went to Indiana and beat Owens and thence up into Minnesota and Wisconsin, where he changed the heavy republican pluralities of Gov. Gear and Lafollette into large democratic majorities.

Congressman Burrows, of Michigan, who managed to pull through the democratic cyclone but fell with the plurality of 39, doesn't think the republicans are going to redeem the disaster of last year.

THE WOMEN IN LINE.

Miners' Wives Turn Out to Greet Campbell.

They Are as Enthusiastic as Any Man Could Be.

Great Crowds Gather Around Jimmie Campbell in His Journey Among the Workingmen of the State.

Circleville, O., Oct. 28.—(Special)—Gov. Campbell wound up his Hocking Valley campaign at Shawnee last night by addressing the largest political meeting ever held in this town.

Miners came from all parts of the county and there were five brass bands and 14 organized clubs in the procession.

One of the novel features of the parade was the sight of the miners' wives, marching by their side in the procession.

They were every bit as enthusiastic as the men.

Gov. Campbell rested at Junction City last night and reached Circleville at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

He was met at the station by the Pickaway democratic club and escorted to the steps of the court house, where he made a 45-minute talk to 3,000 people.

The meeting was gotten up on short notice but it was a great success. At 11 o'clock the governor left for Waverly.

At Chillicothe the news of the governor's coming had preceeded him a few minutes and before his train reached the station several hundred people had gathered.

He stepped off onto the platform to shake hands, but before he left the station he was called upon for a speech and responded by telling of the remarkable interest of the people in the canvass and the spirit an d size of his meetings throughout the state.

His remarks were enthusiastically received.

The run from Custerville to Waverly was made on a special and at Chillicothe the governor was joined by a number of prominent democrats who accompanied him to Waverly.

At Waverly there was an immense crowd at the station, the people having begun to arrive in town as early as 5 o'clock this morning.

When the governor's train pulled in its arrival was announced by the booming of cannon and music by several bands.

Hon. James Emmit and other democrats took the governor in charge, and there was a procession. The meeting here to-day is much larger than two years ago when Governor Campbell opened his campaign. All of the houses and stores are profusely decorated, and the meting is pronounced the greatest political success in the history of Pike county.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

COOK NOT GUILTY.

The jury in the case of the state against Joseph Cook, on hearing in criminal court, returned a verdict late yesterday afternoon of not guilty. He was charged with burglary and larceny.

HORSE THIEF RETURNED.

Detective Spore returned from Detroit yesterday with the man who is charged with stealing a horse from Henry Woodward, of Adams township. The man is James Stump, living on Washington street.

HALCYON OPENING PARTY.

The Halcyon club has issued invitations for the opening party of the season, which will be a complimentary one and occurs at G. A. R. hall Monday evening, November 2. The boys are making preparations to make this an elegant affair, and as their standard is high it is sure to be enjoyable.

IDA CUBAN ON TRIAL.

The case against Ida Cuban for keeping a house of ill-fame is being heard before a jury in police court to-day. The morning was taken up with the empanelling of the jury, and evidence is being introduced this afternoon. The Cuban woman claims that she keeps a perfectly straight and well regulated boarding house.

WANTS JUDGMENT REVERSED.

This morning there was filed in the United States District court a suit entitled the village of Celina vs. Eastport Savings bank. The bank recovered a judgment against Celina for $3,611.56. Celina asks for a reversal of the judgment on the ground that it was taken by default and without the knowledge of the plaintiff.

COSTLY BLOW.

L. M. Sperry was fined $10 and costs in police court this morning for an assault and battery committed on the person of L. Mathews. The affair occurred in Mathews' restaurant Monday. Sperry's wife had been working at the place and he had been boarding there. The couple were about to leave when a dispute arose over the settlement and resulted in the assault.

HERE'S A BEET AS IS A BEET.

Thomas Tompkins, living about two miles below Presque Isle on the Bay shore, brought to the Bee office this morning a beet weighing 31 3-4 pounds, of the mangel wurtzel kind. It is a whopper, and no mistake.

Mr. Tompkins also raises some fine sugar beets, of which he also brought a sample. The latter will grow from 50 to 80 tons to the acre. The gentleman has the thanks of the Bee for the above, as well as for a quantity of quinces.

CHAIR STOLEN AND RECOVERED.

A large willow chair was stolen from 2226 Lagrange street yesterday, and by night the thieves were lodged by the police station and the chair recovered. Two men sold the chair yesterday to Mr. Fox, of Auburndale, for 50 cents. This was so cheap as to be suspicious, and the matter was reported to the police and the two men arrested. They gave their names as William Burk and William Murphy, and the chair proved to be the one stolen from Lagrange street.

RALLY OF COLORED MEN.

A rally for colored voters is announced to be held at Myers' hall to-night, which is to be addressed by Hon. D. Augustus Straker, of Detroit, who, it will be remembered, talked about two hours at the Lincoln banquet in Toledo last February. Among other speakers named for the rally is Mr. M. A. Vena. Of course Mr. Vena will tell the brethren about his treatment by the officers in the government building, and of the munificent offer of a six months' job without pay which he received at the hands of Postmaster Brown. He will also probably give a list of the appointments held by colored men in Toledo and the state at large. And then he may not.

MONTEVIDEO A "STOP-OVER" POINT.

Uruguay is known in this country chiefly through the frequent presence of United States ships at Montevideo. The capital of the little state is known in naval parlance as "The Mount," and the Rio de la Plata is always spoken of aboard ship as "The River." United States ships returning home by way of the Cape of Good Hope usually touch Montevideo, and there, for the first time in many weeks, the officers enjoy the luxury of a comfortable club and a good shore dinner. Here the naval vessels of all nations congregate, and the capital has an importance quite aside from its domestic relations. The river at Montevideo is subject to terrific wind storms, and at such times it is almost impossible for a small boat to live in the stream. Many an American naval officer has incurred the reprimand of his superior by overstaying his leave because of a norther on the Rio de la Plata.

AN OUTRAGEOUS SCHEME

To Keep Democrats From Voting on Election Day.

The Local Republican Executive Committee Grows Desperate and Concocts a Nefarious Plan of Operations on Next Tuesday.

The Bee has it on excellent authority that the Lucas county republican executive committee has concocted a plan of operations for the afternoon of election day, the object of which is to prevent democratic working men and others from recording their votes.

The plan is to have 40 voters in each precinct ready to vote at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of election day.

These 40 voters will so arrange that they will occupy the 60 minutes between 5 and 6 o'clock—the time at which the polls close.

The motive and object of this outrageous scheme is obvious, but it won't work.

It is a mighty dangerous game to attempt, and the democrats of Toledo will see to it that it is not put into execution.

"Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad."

IN RAILROAD CIRCLES.

Nothing Done by Toledo Passenger Committee.

Fun Ahead for the Central Traffic Association—Notes Local and General.

The Toledo passenger committee was in session at the Boody house yesterday afternoon.

The object of the meeting was to formulate a uniform rate sheet. There was much discussion, but nothing definite accomplished.

The Pennsylvania Discharging Men.

It is said that a general clearing out of employes in the local office of Pennsylvania Railroad company is contemplated. Two men were discharged yesterday, and several more are on the ragged edge. The causes for the discharges are unknown.

To Confirm the Mackinaw Sale.

On November 7 at Cleveland application will be made in the United States court for the sale of the Mackinaw. The papers are being prepared at the office of Swayne, Swayne and Hayes.

A Valuable Memoradum.

Ever since Mr. C. T. Wright has been put in charge of the lumber business of the B. & O. the patrons of that line have realized the importance of the step by the excellent service and careful attention they have received at the hands of this officer.

Mr. Wright is ever on the alert to accommodate his patrons. His latest move in this particular is a present to all lumber shippers of a memorandum, neatly bound, vest pocket size, giving a complete list of all lumber dealers located on or reached via the B. & O. It also gives the initials of cars that can be shipped via the B. & O. The little compendium will be invaluable to lumber shippers.

There is Fun Ahead.

Sensational developments are promised in the commission paying difficulties pending in the Central Traffic association.

General Passenger Agent Hibbard, of the "Soo," notified Vice Chairman Donald that he would appear before the eastbound passenger committee to-day with proof that more lines than one in the Central Traffic association are paying commissions at St. Paul on business routed east via Chicago.

In event of his confirming these charges representative roads will be placed in a rather peculiar position.

Cinders Here and There.

The officials of the Lake Erie & Western are inspecting the system.

C. L. Sprague, traveling passenger agent of the L. &N., is in the city to-day.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company, on October 10, had a cash balance of $9,000,000 in banks.

A meeting of the general passenger agents of the Central Traffic association has been called for November 5.

Frank Snavely, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago & Northwestern, showed up at the Boody house to-day.

The annual report of the Lake Shore shows that during the last fiscal year the road earned gross per mile $14,437, net per mile $4,580.

The track of the Short Line, the new protege of the Columbus, Shawnee & Hocking, has been laid between Sandusky and Bellevue.

Arrangements have been entered into between the Baltimore & Ohio and the Lake Erie & Western, whereby the two road will connect at Wheeling.

The earnings of the Lake Erie & Western road for the third week in October were $67,068.60, an increase of over $3,812.33.

LIQUOR IN OLD TIMES.

The Rev. Dr. Cuyler, of Brooklyn, says that Horace Greeley once told him that he believed that at the time of his young manhood in New Hampshire he was the only tectotaler in the state. Dr. Cuyler further says, upon the authority of Dr. Lyman Beecher, that in those times, when the Congregational Ministers' association of Connecticut held a dinner, the place where they dined had so much whisky in it that it smelled like a barroom.

DAY NURSERY CIRCLE.

The New Work Undertaken by the King's Daughters.

A Benevolent and Noble Enterprise Undertaken with Every Promise of Success—Meeting at Trinity This Morning.

The second meeting of the ladies interested in the establishment of a day nursery in Toledo for working women's children was held this morning in the guild room of Trinity church. The happy thought of providing a home where these little ones could be cared for during the day, while their mothers were out at work, originated with some of the leaders in the work of the King's Daughters, seeming to them very fitting work to be done "in His name."

There has been a quiet canvass made to see what need there was of such a place, and what the promise of its successful working was, and everything shows that the institution is very much needed, and will be supported. An informal meeting was held one week ago to-day, which adjourned until this morning, when a well attended meeting was held.

In the absence of Mrs. Wm. W. Bolles, Mrs. Dr. Bacon presided, and Mrs. S. F. Waldron acted as secretary. These three ladies, with Mrs. A. M. Woolson, have been very active in starting this enterprise. Since the last meeting Mesdames Bacon, Woolson and Waldron have visited a similar institution in Detroit, and they reported to the meeting what they found there.

The Detroit nursery was started in 1885, with one crib, which, with its furnishings, was given by a bereaved mother. The directors now own and use two buildings, which are suitably furnished for their work, and all bills are promptly paid every month. The revenue is derived from the annual payment of membership fees, by volunteer subscriptions, and by soliciting, from time to time, such help as is needed. Mothers leaving their children there also pay 5 cents a day, which is charged that it may not seem to them a charitable institution.

Children are taken in with ages ranging from 7 months to 7 years, when the child is old enough to attend public school. No child is refused, but an investigating committee looks into every case, and if it is found that mothers who are not out at work have brought children there, such are not received again.

There is a nursery for the very little ones, each having its own white and gilded crib, each crib named for a flower, and the flower appears upon the little pillow. For the older children is a free kindergarten, with all the benefits of kindergarten training. There are bath rooms, and each child is given its bath in the morning. If its clothes are not suitable, it is dressed in clothes belonging to the nursery, but these are taken off when the child is carried away at night. They also furnish the dinners to the little ones. One working matron with an assistant does all the work, though at times, as during house-cleaning time in the spring and fall, as many as 200 babies are cared for each day.

The Toledo ladies will be satisfied to start as humbly as did the Detroit ladies, but the indications are that they will be able to have quite a nursery from the start. It was thought to start with a circle of 25, each of whom should contribute one dollar and solicit another, but it was decided to ask all King's Daughters to join, and when the society is fully organized an advisory board of gentlemen will be asked to assist the managers, as is done in Detroit.

The society organized this morning by selecting name, text and motto. The name is "Day Nursery Circle;" the text: "Suffer little children to come unto Me;" the motto, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me."

The question of location was discussed, and Infirmary Director Kirkby was reported as advising it should be between Swan creek and Cherry street and not farther out than Tenth street. Mrs. A. M. Woolson reported that Mr. Woolson would donate the use of one floor in a brick tenement house owned by the company on Oak street, but as she has not visited it she could not answer for its fitness. A committee on house was appointed, to report at the next meeting, the committee consisting of Mrs. Maurice A. Scott, chairman; Mrs. A. M. Woolson and Mrs. John B. Marston.

The question of furnishing the rooms and getting together the things necessary to start with were discussed, and it was decided each of the members who joined the society should act as a soliciting committee until the next meeting. The ladies who entered the circle to-day were: Mesdames H. M. Bacon, C. F. Waldron, Matie Eck, James Campbell, W. W. Bolles, Thos. Daniels, Theodore A. Kline, E. A. Edwards, Maurice Scott, A. M. Woolson, A. P. Stevens, John B. Marston, Jessie Perigo, Anna Janes, Mary Sturgis, Carry Berry Phelps, Mattie Norton, Jessi Perigo, Anna Janes Mary Janes.

The circle adjourned to meet with the King's Daughters of the First Congregational church next Saturday afternoon at 4:30.

THEIR LOVE FOR THE NEGRO

Republicans Now Refer to Him as "the Nigger."

Chairman Hahn Had Better Send a Tracer After P. C. Lane or He Will Damage the Cause.

Fostoria, Oct. 28.—Mr. P. C. Lane, the prominent republican politician of Mt. Vernon who has returned from a visit in Texas for the express purpose of helping the failing fortunes of McKinley, is registered at the Hays house here. Mr. Lane, unlike most of his party, is a candid man. Interviewed by a correspondent he expressed himself as follows

"Yes, I am sorry to say that I must concede the defeat of McKinley. This blamed democratic measure, which gives the laboring man an opportunity to vote as he thinks, will play havoc with the McKinley tariff. You know I've just returned from Texas and I'm glad to say that the republican is shaking the dirty nigger and organizing what is known as the Lily White club.

This is being done in every county and is right. Any party which sits down upon the nigger will be popular, and I'm glad to say that the republican party of Texas has opened its eyes. The nigger was never fit to hold office and the sooner he is sat upon the better, for he breeds like cattle. Of course, here in the north it's all right to cater to them for their votes, but they never were created, nor never will be equal to the whites."

About noon Hon. John P. Green, colored representative from Cuyahoga county, came into town and this venerable hypocrite Lane, with his white locks flowing in the breeze, was seen walking down Main street arm in arm with the much despised negro. Such is republican consistency. The negro is opening his eyes, however.

A COLUMN OF SMILES.

Kane county never had but one negro juror and he had a hard time of it, says the Chicago Times. It was back in the '60's, when Augustus M. Herrington, Col. Ed Joslyn, "Broadhorns" Barry and Judge Parks were leading lights of the bar. The custom of drinking whisky was then almost universal and many of the lawyers did not consider their satchels packed until a flask of whisky had been deposited along with their law books. Col. Joslyn was one of this number. So, also was Judge Parks. But pecuniary embarrassment usually prevented him from bringing both satchel and law books; and sometimes he was even obliged to come up to court without the whisky.

During the noon recess of a session, when Judge Parks was particularly thirsty and had not wherewithal to quench his thirst, he went into the deserted attorneys' room to meditate on his misfortunes. There, upon a hat-hook, hanging open by one strap, was Col. Joslyn's satchel, and in it, plainly displayed to view, was a full flask of whisky. How it made his mouth water. "Now," reasoned Parks, "if Col. Joslyn were here he would ask me to drink. Of course he would. Then what need to wait for him to come?"

As he was thus philosophizing the negro juror sauntered in. Here was a way out of the difficulty. "Thomas Jefferson," said Parks, "don't that look like mighty good whisky?"

"Yes, sah, it do!"

"Help yourself if you'd like some."

"Sartin, sah! Much obleeged, sah," said the darky, taking the flask and handing it to Parks with a profound bow.

Parks drank "deep." Then he handed it back to the darky, who did the same. When the attorneys returned they found Parks on the lounge, calling in thickened accents for "jes' a-a-a lil' more, Thomas Jefferson."

Thomas Jefferson was not in a condition to spare a little more, for he had drained the flask.

When the negro, who began to recover first, became partially sobered the lawyers went in for some fun. They pretended that the court had appointed them to try Thomas Jefferson for conduct unbecoming a juror. Augustus M. Herrington presided and explained to the culprit that the charges against him were very serious, and that the penalty, if convicted, would be severe.

The darky pleaded for mercy and pleaded that it was Parks who took the whisky and tempted him to drink.

"But when Parks pressed you to drink why didn't you put temptation behind you and leavee the room?"

RAW AS BEEF-STEAK

Baby's Fearful Suffering from Skin Disease Covering Entire Body Cured by Cuticura.

My baby was taken very sick when he was three months old, and in a few days began breaking out. We employed both of the home doctors, and they could do nothing for him. Then we went for the best doctor in Eaton Rapids, Mich., and he doctored him for two weeks, and he got worse all the time; and then I took him to Jackson, to a doctor who attends especially to skin diseases, and then he got worse than ever. Then I told my husband we had better try the CUTICURA REMEDIES any way; did not have any idea they would do any good, but in less than two months from the time we began giving them to him he was entirely well and not a spot on him. His hair began growing right off, and we thought it would always be bald-headed. There was not a spot on his whole body, face and head, only his nose and eyes, but what was as raw as beef-steak. So poor there was not anything but bones, and so weak he could raise neither hand nor head.

Mrs. FRANK BARRETT, Winfield, Mich.

Cuticura Resolvent
